

Drownings, Highway Deaths Mar July 4 Celebrations

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Americans celebrated their nation's 192nd birthday Thursday with parades and pageants, picnics and political oratory. Abroad the anniversary was marked by antiwar protests in Sweden and Australia.

Fourth of July festivities included quiet family gatherings, tradition-steeped parades, softball games on village greens and hundreds of fireworks displays.

For some there were thoughts of loved ones fighting half way around the world in a bitter and controversial war.

A small group of American military defectors from that conflict briefly interrupted a celebration on the grounds of the U.S. Embassy in Stockholm, shouting "American imperialism" and "America out of Vietnam."

In Melbourne, Australia, about 2,000 demonstrators protesting American involvement in Vietnam smashed every window in the front of the U.S. consulate, painted its steps red and battled for an hour with police. Back home, President and Mrs. Johnson spent the day touring the HemisFair exposition in San Antonio, Tex. In a brief speech he observed:

"A man who is untrained for work, or harassed by ill health, who cannot buy a decent house for his family or see his children well-educated, has little independence, despite our Fourth of July rhetoric."

On the nation's highways the death toll climbed slowly. The National Safety Council has estimated that between 700 and 800 persons will die in traffic accidents before the four-day period is over.

The weather over most of the country was fair except for scattered showers in the Southeast and parts of the West.

Two traffic accidents that took a total of five lives and a series of single fatality accidents Thursday pushed Ohio's July fourth weekend toll to more than one-third of the 38 deaths predicted for the holiday.

By mid-morning at least 13 traffic deaths had been recorded.

The national toll of deaths in traffic mounted steadily today as millions of Americans returned to work after an Independence Day off and many others extended their holiday outings into the long weekend.

The total reached 224 midway through the second day of the four-day holiday.

Although showers dampened parts of the Southeast and portions of the midcontinent, dry weather offered good driving conditions over most of the country for the Fourth of July and today.

The National Safety Council has estimated that between 700 and 800 Americans may die in motor vehicle accidents in the weekend that began at 6 p.m. Wednesday and ends at midnight Sunday.

For comparison purposes, The Associated Press made a survey of traffic deaths during a non-holiday period of the same length and counted 553 fatalities. The weekend surveyed ran from 6 p.m. Wednesday, June 19, to midnight Sunday, June 23.

Drownings and boating mishaps also accounted for a large number of accident deaths across the country Thursday.

Seven children on a holiday outing, and a man who was giving them a boat ride, drowned when their 12-foot outboard flipped over in Lake Easy just south of Lake Wales, Fla. The only survivor was an 11-year-old girl who clung to the overturned boat until rescued.

"When the first car got there, the families of the kids were wading around in the water, crying and searching for bodies," said Capt. Earl Branch of the Polk County sheriff's department. "None of them could swim."

The families were making an all-day Fourth of July outing of it, said a nearby cottage owner. "They had set up their picnic stuff early in the morning," Branch said William Harrell, (Continued on Page 2)

Report Egypt Would Accept U.N. Peace Force Again

By ARTHUR L. GAVSHON
Associated Press Writer

Senior diplomats say Egypt has offered to take back a United Nations peacekeeping force on its soil as part of an Arab-Israeli settlement, but meanwhile a boost in Egyptian military spending was reported in Cairo.

Diplomats in London said the readiness of Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser to restore a U.N. peace force under some guaranteed form of tenure has been conveyed to the mission of U.N. envoy Gunnar Jarring.

It was deemed a helpful development because Nasser's expulsion of U.N. troops was a major factor in the train of events that led to the six-day Middle East war of June 1967.

Efforts toward a settlement have been stymied by Israel's refusal to give back captured Arab lands without direct negotiations with the Arabs, and the Arabs' refusal to meet face-to-face with the Israelis. The United Nations has called for Israel to withdraw from captured territory and for the Arabs to end their belligerency toward Israel.

Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart told newsmen Thursday prospects for progress in the Middle East seem better.

One encouraging development, he said, was a statement attributed to Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad that "we recognize realities and Israel is one of them. Now we want peace."

But the Egyptian government, in announcing a $4.6-billion budget Thursday, said it was

Rickover Says Subs Blocked

WASHINGTON (AP) — Civilians of the Pentagon and proponents of surface ships are blocking development of U.S. submarines while Russia is far ahead in numbers of undersea craft, charges Vice Adm. Hyman G. Rickover.

The principal tactic being used to delay submarine progress is "to study things to death," Rickover adds.

This is particularly true, he says, of his proposal for a new superquiet sub that could be used to track Russian missile-carrying submarines.

Rickover, known as the father of the nuclear submarine, commented in testimony before the Senate preparedness subcommittee in March and a transcript of the testimony was released Thursday night.

He said the Navy agreed last December that it needed a new sub, but that Dr. John S. Foster, director of defense research and engineering and principal adviser to the secretary of defense on such matters, has kept asking for more studies.

"Since Dr. Foster got the problem, he has made four or five studies... what the next delaying tactic will be I simply don't know," Rickover said.

Poster, in a later appearance before the subcommittee, said he supported the effort to lower submarine noise levels, but thought other things should be considered before building what might be an expensive, one-of-a-kind vessel.

He said the quieter would cost far more than the 85 million estimated for the latest Sturgeon class submarine and that would be pretty expensive research.

No defense figures were disclosed, but semi-official sources said this year's defense appropriation is the highest in Egyptian history.

A special $293.25-million emergency fund was created to consolidate the armed forces and popular resistance against the Israeli occupation of the Egyptian Sinai peninsula and the east bank of the Suez Canal.

New York Sniper Man of Mystery To Investigators

NEW YORK (AP) — A blurred picture emerged today of the Central Park sniper as a nervous, secretive man with a quick temper who apparently stole a gun from a friend and used it to kill one person and wound three others in a wild shooting spree Wednesday.

Police said Thursday that the .45-caliber Smith and Wesson 1917 Army-type revolver which the sniper used before he was shot down by police belonged to Kiril Dimitroff of Jackson, N.J.

Dimitroff, like the sniper, Angelo Angeloff, was from Bulgaria. He told police Angeloff had visited him about 10 days ago, but said he was not aware the revolver was missing until investigators told him.

The New Jersey man said, however, that he was not really friendly with Angeloff, but with the latter's roommate, a man identified by police sources as Kyril Dikov, about 45. Dikov was in St. John's Hospital in Queens, where he was being treated for hand injuries suffered in an industrial accident.

Dikov reportedly met Angeloff at Rova Farms in Freehold, N.J., where the latter was a dishwasher. The dishwasher job was one of the earliest Angeloff held after his arrival in this country, on a Greek passport, in 1966. More recently he worked for a Queens book and magazine distributor, earning about $70 a week until he walked off the job Tuesday.

Dikov and other friends of Angeloff said the sniper was usually a quiet man, but would suddenly become moody. One friend said Angeloff had recently

However, it was understood Nasser also would ask for more Russian arms and aid.

Claim Maddox Gave Order 'Shoot-To-Kill'

BATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Gov. Lester Maddox ordered state troopers during the funeral march for Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. to "shoot them down and stack them up," if marchers attempted to enter Georgia's capitol building, according to a just-published biography of Maddox.

The book is entitled "The Riddle of Lester Maddox." It was written by Bruce Galphin, an editorial associate for the Atlanta Constitution, and published by Camelot Publishing Co. of Atlanta.

According to the book, Maddox issued the order to approximately 200 armed troopers and other law enforcement officers who patrolled the capitol grounds and corridors during the massive march of mourning.

The estimated 200,000 marchers passed directly in front of the capitol, which Maddox had refused to close.

Maddox, questioned about the published report, acknowledged that he issued an order to prevent marchers from entering the capitol and said he "could have" used the language attributed to him in the book.

The governor said he had received information that an attempt would be made to storm the capitol building during the march, and that he had given the order as a precaution.

Maddox denied, however, that he threatened to bring state forces into Atlanta to protect his Pickrick furniture store against a possible fire bomb attack after the murder of King.

Galphin says in his book that Maddox told Atlanta Mayor Ivan Allen Jr. the store had been threatened, and if the city did not provide protection state forces would "stack 'em up like cordwood."

The governor said he did not say that. He said he did receive threats about the store, and reported them to the city in the usual manner.

"The Riddle of Lester Maddox" is described by its publisher as an unauthorized biography. The author reports in the forward that both Maddox and his wife declined to be interviewed for the book.

Shots Fired At Sirhan Brother Eyed

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Police say lack of evidence is hindering their investigation of a report that Saidallah Bishara Sirhan, brother of the man charged with murdering Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, was fired at on a highway.

Police said they were without clues to locating a white Volkswagen bus from which Sirhan said two shots were fired at him early Wednesday.

Two .38-caliber slugs were recovered from Sirhan's car, but police Lt. Gerald Wright said a ballistics test would be useless until the gun which fired the shots can be found.

Sirhan, 35, told police two shots were fired at him from one of two cars which followed him as he drove home on the Pasadena Freeway.

Sirhan's 24-year-old brother, Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, awaits trial in Los Angeles in the Kennedy killing.

B52s Evade Red Missiles

Continue Raids Across DMZ Against Guns

SAIGON (AP) — Two enemy aircraft missiles were fired at U.S. Air Force B52 bombers attacking North Vietnam's southern panhandle Thursday, the U.S. Command reported today.

Spokesman said none of the eight-engine bombers was hit. The B52s have been fired upon before by the Soviet-made missiles on raids in North Vietnam's southernmost section, but none ever has been hit so far in the war.

The B52s began a massive bombing campaign Monday against enemy artillery sites and storage areas in the panhandle and the northern part of the demilitarized zone. Since then, they have flown 28 raids in the area.

The giant bombers are considered vulnerable to the enemy high altitude missiles. U.S. fighter bombers — faster, smaller and lower-flying—ordinarily attack known enemy missile sites before the B52s head for the DMZ or North Vietnam, and the B52s generally try to steer clear of these sites.

In South Vietnam, U.S. infantrymen gingerly probed booby-trapped enemy bunkers today as part of a massive search for weapons that could be used for an attack on Saigon.

Troops of the 1st Division uncovered the enemy bunker complex, which contained the third enemy rocket cache found in the last two days, while screening infiltration routes and supply distribution points 30 miles northwest of the capital Thursday.

An initial search turned up more than 35 of the 100-pound Russian 122mm rockets which have bombarded Saigon in recent weeks, plus more than 1,000 smaller bazooka-type rockets. A more thorough search was under way today, but military spokesmen said it was hindered by a large assortment of booby traps.

The cache is only 10 miles from a big U.S. base at Dau Teng, which came under a 500-round rocket and mortar attack earlier Thursday. Cooks, clerks and drivers helped infantrymen repel enemy commandos in a 2½-hour battle at the base.

SAIGON (AP) — Lt. Col. Frederick Van Deusen, brother-in-law of U.S. Army Chief of Staff Gen. William C. Westmoreland, was killed Wednesday when his helicopter was shot down in the Mekong Delta.

Van Deusen, 37, was shot down just a few hours after Westmoreland was sworn in as chief of staff in Washington. Westmoreland had commanded U.S. forces in Vietnam the last four years.

He was one of 10 men aboard a UH1E command and control helicopter hit by Viet Cong gunfire during an infantry sweep in the northern part of the delta. It crashed into the Voi Co River 18 miles southwest of Saigon.

Three survived the crash. Van Deusen and two others have been confirmed dead and four are missing and presumed dead.

Bizarre Attempt by Convict To Hijack Plane Is Failure

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A prisoner aboard an airliner carrying 71 passengers slipped away from his guards long enough to try a daring plot to hijack the plane. Then, he sat back between his guards and waited.

None of the other passengers aboard the Trans World Airlines plane knew of the threat made quietly by John Hamilton Morris to a stewardess:

"I've got dynamite in this bag. And my two buddies have guns. Turn this plane around and fly it to Hermosillo, Mexico."

The stewardess told the pilot. He told aviation authorities in Los Angeles by radio. At their direction Capt. C. P. Barron changed course. For 20 minutes, while Morris sat between two deputy U.S. marshals, Barron slowly circled southern Nevada.

Then, as Barron sat the Boeing 727 down at McCarran Field, Morris bolted for a door. His guards grabbed and subdued him.

Morris, 48, was taken to Clark County jail here and the plane, after an hour's delay, continued its flight to San Francisco.

A spokesman for the Federal Bureau of Investigation said Morris would appear before a federal grand jury to answer a possible attempted hijacking charge. He was being flown from prison at Leavenworth, Kan., to San Francisco for an appeal hearing on his 15-year sentence for bank robbery.

Authorities said the two deputy marshals assigned to guard the crowd split in two directions, tying up traffic for several blocks.

Glass littered the streets in the areas as some of the youths in the crowd swung boards at the headlights and windows of the cars.

Windows in a number of houses in the area were broken. A spokesman at General Hospital said 13 persons were treated for minor injuries.

The trouble came about 24 hours after demonstrators clashed with police and with a crowd gathered to hear former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace in downtown Minneapolis Wednesday night.

Mass Held For Cardinal

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Eleven priests, headed by John Cardinal Krol, celebrated a Pontifical Requiem Mass today for Francis Cardinal Brennan, a boy from Pennsylvania's coal fields who rose to the highest post at the Vatican ever held by an American.

The noon Mass at the Cathedral of Sts. Peter and Paul, seat of the Philadelphia Catholic Archdiocese which Cardinal Krol heads, followed an early morning requiem service at St. Charles Seminary. The 74-year-old Cardinal Brennan had taught there before going in 1940 to Rome, where he rose swiftly in the service of his church.

At his death Tuesday, Cardinal Brennan—a native of Shenandoah, Pa.—was head of the Roman Curia's Sacred Congregation for the Discipline of the Sacraments.

Police said they are looking for Mrs. Jenkins' husband, John, 20, who was in the club at the time of the shooting.

Minneapolis Firebombings Are Probed

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Three firebombings were reported and scores of windows were broken by more than 100 youths most of them Negroes on the Minneapolis South Side Thursday night.

CORE Convention Confused Over McKissick Successor

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Delegates to the 26th annual convention of the Congress of Racial Equality remained confused today over who will be their new national director.

Roy Innis, considered the most likely to succeed fiery civil rights lawyer Floyd B. McKissick as national director, ran into increased opposition as the convention entered its fourth day.

McKissick, at a testimonial dinner Thursday in his behalf, told about 300 persons that he "might come back" after a slipped spinal disc is corrected.

"I might just step aside for a little while," he said, "but it would make too many white people happy if I leave." McKissick, 46, has been director since 1965.

The governor said he had received information that an attempt would be made to storm the capitol building during the march, and that he had given the order as a precaution.

Maddox denied, however, that he threatened to bring state forces into Atlanta to protect his Pickrick furniture store against a possible fire bomb attack after the murder of King.

Galphin says in his book that Maddox told Atlanta Mayor Ivan Allen Jr. the store had been threatened, and if the city did not provide protection state forces would "stack 'em up like cordwood."

The governor said he did not say that. He said he did receive threats about the store, and reported them to the city in the usual manner.

"The Riddle of Lester Maddox" is described by its publishers as an unauthorized biography. The author reports in the foreword that both Maddox and his wife declined to be interviewed for the book.

Shots Fired At Sirhan Brother Eyed

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Police say lack of evidence is hindering their investigation of a report that Saidallah Bishara Sirhan, brother of the man charged with murdering Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, was fired on a highway.

Police said they were without clues to locating a white Volkswagen bus from which Sirhan said two shots were fired at him early Wednesday.

Two .38-caliber slugs were recovered from Sirhan's car, but police Lt. Gerald Wright said a ballistics test would be useless until the gun which fired the shots can be found.

Sirhan, 35, told police two shots were fired at him from one of two cars which followed him as he drove home on the Pasadena Freeway.

Sirhan's 24-year-old brother, Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, awaits trial in Los Angeles in the Kennedy killing.

Minneapolis Firebombings Are Probed

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Three firebombings were reported and scores of windows were broken by more than 100 youths most of them Negroes on the Minneapolis South Side Thursday night.

The trouble started about 10:30 p.m. after a Fourth of July fireworks display at a city park. One hour after the initial outbreak, police set up a command post near the trouble area.

The firebombing occurred as the crowd split in two directions, tying up traffic for several blocks.

Glass littered the streets in the areas as some of the youths in the crowd swung boards at the headlights and windows of the cars.

Windows in a number of houses in the area were broken. A spokesman at General Hospital said 13 persons were treated for minor injuries.

Mass Held For Cardinal

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Eleven priests, headed by John Cardinal Krol, concelebrated a Pontifical Requiem Mass today for Francis Cardinal Brennan, a boy from Pennsylvania's coal fields who rose to the highest post at the Vatican ever held by an American.

The noon Mass at the Cathedral of Sts. Peter and Paul, seat of the Philadelphia Catholic Archdiocese which Cardinal Krol heads, followed an early morning requiem service at St. Charles Seminary. The 74-year-old Cardinal Brennan had taught there before going in 1940 to Rome, where he rose swiftly in the service of his church.

At his death Tuesday, Cardinal Brennan—a native of Shenandoah, Pa.—was head of the Roman Curia's Sacred Congregation for the Discipline of the Sacraments.

The trouble came about 24 hours after demonstrators clashed with police and with a crowd gathered to hear former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace in downtown Minneapolis Wednesday night.

Heart Transplant Patient Progresses
HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Heart transplant recipient George Henry DeBord, 46, of Helotes, Tex., remained in satisfactory condition today.

DeBord, a contractor, received a new heart Tuesday. The donor, Maxie Anderson, 50, of Lufkin, Tex., died of a brain hemorrhage.

He was taken to Clark County jail here and the plane, after an hour's delay, continued its flight to San Francisco.

A spokesman for the Federal Bureau of Investigation said Morris would appear before a federal grand jury to answer a possible attempted hijacking charge. He was being flown from prison at Leavenworth, Kan., to San Francisco for an appeal hearing on his 15-year sentence for bank robbery.

Authorities said the two deputy marshals assigned to guard

plane knew of the threat made quietly by John Hamilton Morris to a stewardess.

"I've got dynamite in this bag. And my buddies have guns. Turn this plane around and fly it to Hermosillo, Mexico."

The stewardess told the pilot. He told aviation authorities in Los Angeles by radio. At their direction Capt. C. P. Barron changed course. For 20 minutes, while Morris sat between two deputy U.S. marshals, Barron slowly circled southern Nevada.

Then, as Barron sat the Boeing 727 down at McCarran Field, Morris bolted for a door. His guards grabbed and subdued him.

Morris, 48, was taken to Clark County jail here and the plane, after an hour's delay, continued its flight to San Francisco.

When the first car got there, the families of the kids were wading around in the water, crying and searching for bodies," said Capt. Earl Branch of the Polk County sheriff's department. "None of them could swim."

The Mayor's Report

A 'Community in Action'

By MAYOR RICHARD L. GERHARDT

Before last Tuesday's Council Meeting, I delivered the first in a series of annual messages about the affairs of Circleville. It stated that we should become "a community in action." What does this mean for the city?

The significance of the address takes three separate, but equally important factors into consideration.

First, it points out that if we are to keep ahead of the rapid growth we have experienced in the past years, we must begin now to develop a plan for orderly growth and expansion. A five year plan must become the backbone of this effort. The Section "701" will be the first step in many to accomplish the task.

Secondly, we must recognize the fact that many things need immediate attention and must be acted upon in the short run. The "State of the City" listed 82 separate items of immediate concern. Although some of these recommendations are not new in nature, the fact remains that nothing as of yet has been done to eliminate them. They will remain on my list of recommendations until the task is accomplished or the problem eliminated. Action, not words, solves problems.

Finally, and perhaps most important of all, every individual and group, public or private, must become involved. A responsive government is one in which its citizens are not only concerned, but also active participants. An old saying I recently ran across seems very appropriate. It said "If you are not helping to solve the problem, you're part of the problem."

These three factors, planning for the future, immediate action on pressing problems, and individual involvement describe the "State of the City" and a "community in action" in the way we will be able to become the best city in our state and nation.

Raymond Parks of Winter Haven said he was fishing nearby when the boat started swinging toward the picnic site on the bank.

He said the boat rolled over in the middle of the run, pitching its cargo of children into 15 feet of water about 100 yards from shore.

Branch said Deputy Ray Greubel, who was camping with his family nearby, swam to the overturned boat and found Harrell and Venera Clay clinging to its side.

Witnesses said the girl lost her hold on the boat and both men attempted to save her. The deputy grasped the girl and brought her back to the boat, Branch said. But when he turned around, Harrell had gone under.

Greubel recovered a second little girl, but could not revive her when they reached shore. The bodies were recovered during a three-hour search by divers and men in boats with grappling hooks.

The dead were listed as Harrell, Belinda Clay, 12 and her 14-year-old sister, Cynthia, of Lakeand; their cousin, Jimmie Elaine Clay, 9, and Sheila Jennings, 8, Carolyn Jones, 11, Cynthia Jackson, 7, and Rhonda Tucker, 10, all of Lake Wales.

Bridge Falls; All Survive Plunge into Dark Waters

LONGVIEW, Wash. (AP)—A wooden footbridge jammed with people watching fireworks collapsed Thursday night, plunging scores of people into a lake near the center of Longview. All apparently survived.

Police Chief Ralph Benefiel said as many as 200 persons may have been on the bridge. But no one could know for certain.

Skindivers scoured Lake Sacajewea today but said they found no bodies. Ambulances, hearses and even station wagons were pressed into service, hurrying 89 persons to two hospitals. Seven were admitted to St. John's Hospital for further treatment, two with broken legs.

The footbridge was 15 feet high, 5 feet wide and about 100 feet long. Water underneath was up to eight feet deep. There was no current.

The fireworks display, sponsored as in years past by the Jaycees, had just ended and Fourth of July celebrators were leaving the park that runs through the center of this planned, former company town when witnesses heard a loud snap.

"The bridge bowed, then collapsed," said John Martin. "There were a lot of screams. Mothers didn't know where their babies were. I heard people yelling, then it went down."

The footbridge was closed at least once during recent years because of rotten timbers. Pieces of the bridge, pulled to shore today by a wrecker, showed signs of rot.

Don Gregory, a Cowlitz County reserve deputy, said the bridge had been closed to foot traffic several years ago, but it was reopened when repairs were made. Still standing at one end of the bridge is a sign reading, "No horses on bridge."

Kenneth Dahl, Cowlitz County deputy coroner, said the bystanders probably saved many lives.

"When the bridge fell in, many people on the shore jumped in and started pulling people out," he said.

The footbridge is located on a point that juts into the man made lake. It normally is used by students going to a nearby school. Vehicular traffic must take bigger bridges several blocks away.

Paterson, N.J., Disorders End after 3-Day Outbreak

PATERSON, N.J. (AP)—A strong, took to the streets in both peaceful, and violent demonstrations in protest of what they claimed was excessive force by police in making arrests.

About 18,000 of the city's 146,000 residents are Puerto Rican. The Negro population is about 30,000.

Police reported that 24 persons, all adults, had been arrested Thursday night and today, bringing the total for the three days to 54. They were charged with varied counts of resisting arrest, malicious mischief and loitering.

Three Paterson hospitals reported treating about three dozen injured persons. Many of the injured, however, did not report to hospitals. Some 20 persons were injured, including several policemen, in the previous nights of violence.

Helmets police displayed shotguns in a show of strength, but no shooting was reported Thursday night. There had been one report of shooting by police early Thursday to discourage youths throwing missiles from rooftops.

Police used tear gas to break up large crowds. "The tear gas is very effective," Deputy Police Chief Angelo Esposito said.

Broken glass, bottles, bricks and rocks littered the streets of the Puerto Rican section just east of the downtown area of this industrial city. Many cars parked on the streets were heavily damaged.

Jeremiah's Prophecy Fulfilled

THE PROPHET STANDS FIRM IN THE FACE OF PERSECUTION AND SUFFERING

Scripture—Jeremiah 38, 39.

By R. H. RAMSEY

TODAY we begin a new quarter of lessons dealing with the final period of Old Testament history, the Exile and Restoration. We shall briefly review those events climaxed by the downfall of the Southern Kingdom. This was followed by the Exile and ultimate Restoration of Jerusalem under Ezra and Nehemiah.

The destruction of the kingdom of Judah and the Exile of its people constitutes one of the great turning points in Hebrew history. Before the Exile the Hebrew people were frequently in rebellion against God, falling easily into the practices and vices of idolatry. Carried off captive in 586 B.C., the Hebrews returned 70 years later to found a new political, economic, and religious order shorn of most of the vices which had plagued the people in the past.

From the first Jeremiah had said that Jerusalem would be destroyed by the enemies of the Jews, unless God's people turned from their idolatry and immorality, repented of their sins and sought God's mercy. Such a message was unwelcome anything but happy with the state of affairs. His people and his reign were in jeopardy and he was well aware of the fates of his predecessors. He knew Jeremiah had something to say to him and was determined to hear it.

Already a prisoner, Jeremiah knew that whatever he said could be held against him. He informed the king that if he spoke as a prophet, the king would not listen. Zedekiah reassured Jeremiah and gave him his word that he would not be delivered into the hands of those who desired his death. Then Jeremiah spoke.

Though the city was doomed, it was not yet destroyed. If the king tries to defend the city or to escape to Egypt, he will be destroyed. In order to live and to save the city from total destruction, Zedekiah must surrender to the king of Babylon. Otherwise the royal family, the king, his wives and children, would be seized as captives and the city burned.

in times of peace, and even more so in the last days of Jerusalem. For more than twenty years the country had been paved at and fought over by the Egyptians and the Babylonians. Rulers put on the throne of Judah by the Egyptians were killed or captured and replaced by the Babylonians. Jeremiah saw no hope for his country in those chaotic days and advised his people to submit to the enemy. This made him even more unpopular and an appeal for his execution was made to the king, Zedekiah, who had been placed on the throne of Judah by the Babylonians.

Unwilling to kill the prophet, Zedekiah compromised by having him thrown into the dungeon of Malchijah, where he would have starved to death had he not been released by Ebed-Melech, an Ethiopian slave in the king's house.

Hearing of Jeremiah's imprisonment, Ebed-Melech pleaded with the king for his release. The king agreed, ordering Ebed-Melech to take others with him to aid in the rescue.

After Jeremiah had been freed, the king summoned him to an interview. The king was based on copyrighted outlines produced by the Divisions of Christian Education, National Council of Churches of Christ in the U.S.A., and used by permission. Distributed by King Features Syndicate

The final paragraph of our lesson properly belongs after 38:13. For Ebed-Melech, the Ethiopian slave who had delivered Jeremiah from the dungeon, there is God's promise that he will be kept safe during and after the destruction of the city for his kindness to Jeremiah and trust in the Lord.

Columbus First In Big City Street Safety

Traffic Death Listings Given For Ohio Cities

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Figures compiled by the National Safety Council show that Columbus streets were the safest in the country for big city motorists and pedestrians during the first four months of 1968.

Columbus was the "runaway" leader in the 500,000 - 750,000 population category with 12 fatalities for the period, or 1.5 deaths per 10,000 vehicles and 6.6 per 100,000 population. Pittsburgh was second with 15 deaths, Cincinnati was 10th in the same class with 28.

Cleveland was seventh and last in the 750,000.1 million bracket with 32 deaths.

Toledo had 11 deaths for a 1.9 registration rate, finishing second in the 350,000-500,000 class behind Buffalo.

Dayton's eight fatalities placed it seventh in the 200,000-350,000 division; Youngstown was 27th and Canton 58th in the 100,000-200,000 class. In the 136-city list embracing the 50,000-100,000 populations, Euclid was 20th with no deaths, the leaders having more population and vehicles. Hamilton with one death was 32nd, Lorain with one death 38th, Lima (1) in 39th place; Springfield (2) in 51st, Cuyahoga Falls (1) in 56th, Lakewood (2) in 87th, Warren (5) in 93rd, Mansfield (4) in 114th place and Elyria (4) in 120th place.

Newark was third, behind Boulder Colo., and Lakewood, Fla., in the 25,000-50,000 bracket, with no deaths. Other rankings included Massillon 30th, Middletown 86th, Xenia 136th, Sandusky 164th, Findlay 167th, Fairborn 185th, Steubenville 204th.

Synthetic 'Pot' Worries Law Officers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal narcotics agents are concerned about the possible appearance of man-made marijuana which is colorless and odorless but so powerful only two or three drops in a cigarette can produce the same kick as natural marijuana, the Washington Post said today.

"Smuggling in synthetic marijuana could make the $350 million a year heroin business look like peanuts," the paper quoted a narcotics agent as saying.

"And it would be easy," he added. "A little alcohol, and some coloring and it could be brought in as after-shave lotion."

The Justice Department's Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs plans to send Congress fresh legislation to cover the sale and use of marijuana made in a laboratory, the Post said. Currently, federal law covers only natural marijuana which is grown.

Federal officials say marijuana was first made synthetically four years ago by an Israeli chemist. They say it is still extremely expensive to produce, the major factor that has kept it from the illegal drug market.

Federal officials fear, however, that the price is bound to come down as more chemists tinker with it.

"When this happens we may be in very deep trouble," one agent said.

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

By JOE GARAGIOLA

EDITOR'S NOTE—Joe, now a regular on NBC's "Today Show" and often working far away from the baseball field, graduated from big league catcher to the banquet circuit raconteur to sportscaster and—this year—to television interviewer and personality. Here he describes his most challenging, exciting moments: occupying Johnny Carson's hot seat.

NEW YORK (AP) — There I was, sitting in my office at NBC when the telephone rang and a voice told me a network vice president was calling.

I had some doubts about what he might want. I learned early in life about telephone calls from the boss. Like the time I was in the bull pen, and the manager called, "Joe, come on in, and bring your glove."

While I was thinking that I was going to get a chance to play, the manager said, "Del Rice (who was catching) broke the webbing on his glove, and he wants to borrow yours."

Each time I got a phone call from the general manager, I figured that I was going to be traded. It was amazing how many times I was right, too.

While I was thinking about these things, the man himself came on the line. He said, "Joe, Johnny Carson is going to take a couple of weeks off, and we were wondering how you'd feel about sitting in his chair for one of the weeks he is away."

I had some doubts, and there were some people I wanted to talk to before I accepted. I'd been on the "Tonight" show many times, often enough to realize that Johnny Carson's job is not as easy as he makes it look. I wondered whether I could handle it.

One man I wanted to talk to was Jack Paar who gave me my first big-time television shot on that same show, and out of that has grown a close friendship.

Jack told me he was confident that I could do the job and that he'd be glad to give me any help I needed. That offer looked like a nice, hanging curveball, and I jumped at it. I told Jack that if he wanted to help, he could be my very first guest on the show.

They'd been after Jack to go on the show ever since he left it, and to that he'd always said, "No, thanks." When I asked him, he said, simply, "I'll be there."

How well did it turn out? The answer to that is not mine, but yours. But, I can tell you that it was both a challenging and an exciting week for me.

My guests were interesting and cooperative. If I were doing the show again, I'd like to do it with the same people. (Beatles John Lennon and Paul McCartney were a little bit of a problem when they first sat down. They were tired, they were on the defensive. Eventually, though, they loosened up, and made my job easier. They also made me a big man with an 8-year-old lady in my house.)

that he would say nothing to anyone of what he had said. When he was interrogated by the princes, Jeremiah told only a part of what had taken place. Jeremiah's prophecy was overwhelmingly fulfilled. Nebuchadnezzar and his army besieged the city. After eighteen months the city fell. When it dawned upon the king that the hour for the city's destruction had arrived, Zedekiah fled the city, contrary to the clear warning of the prophet. He was seized, blinded and taken in chains to Babylon. His sons and the nobles of Judah were slain; the city was burned and its walls destroyed. And the people were carried into exile. Only the poorest people, the ill and the elderly were left in Jerusalem. Jeremiah, freed from prison by Nebuchadnezzar, elected to remain in Jerusalem with them.

The final paragraph of our lesson properly belongs after 38:13. For Ebed-Melech, the Ethiopian slave who had delivered Jeremiah from the dungeon, there is God's promise that he will be kept safe during and after the destruction of the city for his kindness to Jeremiah and trust in the Lord.

Columbus First In Big City Street Safety

Traffic Death Listings Given For Ohio Cities

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Figures compiled by the National Safety Council show that Columbus streets were the safest in the country for big city motorists and pedestrians during the first four months of 1968.

Columbus was the "runaway" leader in the 500,000 - 750,000 population category with 12 fatalities for the period, or 1.5 deaths per 10,000 vehicles and 6.6 per 100,000 population. Pittsburgh was second with 15 deaths, Cincinnati was 10th in the same class with 28.

Cleveland was seventh and last in the 750,000-1 million bracket with 32 deaths.

Toledo had 11 deaths for a 1.9 registration rate, finishing second in the 350,000-500,000 class behind Buffalo.

Dayton's eight fatalities placed it seventh in the 200,000-350,000 division; Youngstown was 27th and Canton 58th in the 100,000-200,000 class. In the 136-city list embracing the 50,000-100,000 populations, Euclid was 20th with no deaths, the leaders having more population and vehicles. Hamilton with one death was 32nd, Lorain with one death 38th, Lima (1) in 39th place; Springfield (2) in 51st, Cuyahoga Falls (1) in 56th, Lakewood (2) in 87th, Warren (3) in 93rd, Mansfield (4) in 114th place and Elyria (4) in 120th place.

Newark was third, behind Boulder Colo., and Lakewood, Fla., in the 25,000-50,000 bracket, with no deaths. Other rankings included Massillon 39th, Middletown 86th, Xenia 136th, Sandusky 164th, Findlay 167th, Fairborn 185th, Steubenville 204th.

Synthetic 'Pot' Worries Law Officers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal narcotics agents are concerned about the possible appearance of man-made marijuana which is colorless and odorless but so powerful only two or three drops in a cigarette can produce the same kick as natural marijuana, the Washington Post said today.

"Smuggling in synthetic marijuana could make the $350 million a year heroin business look like peanuts," the paper quoted a narcotics agent as saying.

"And it would be easy," he added. "A little alcohol and some coloring and it could be brought in as after-shave lotion."

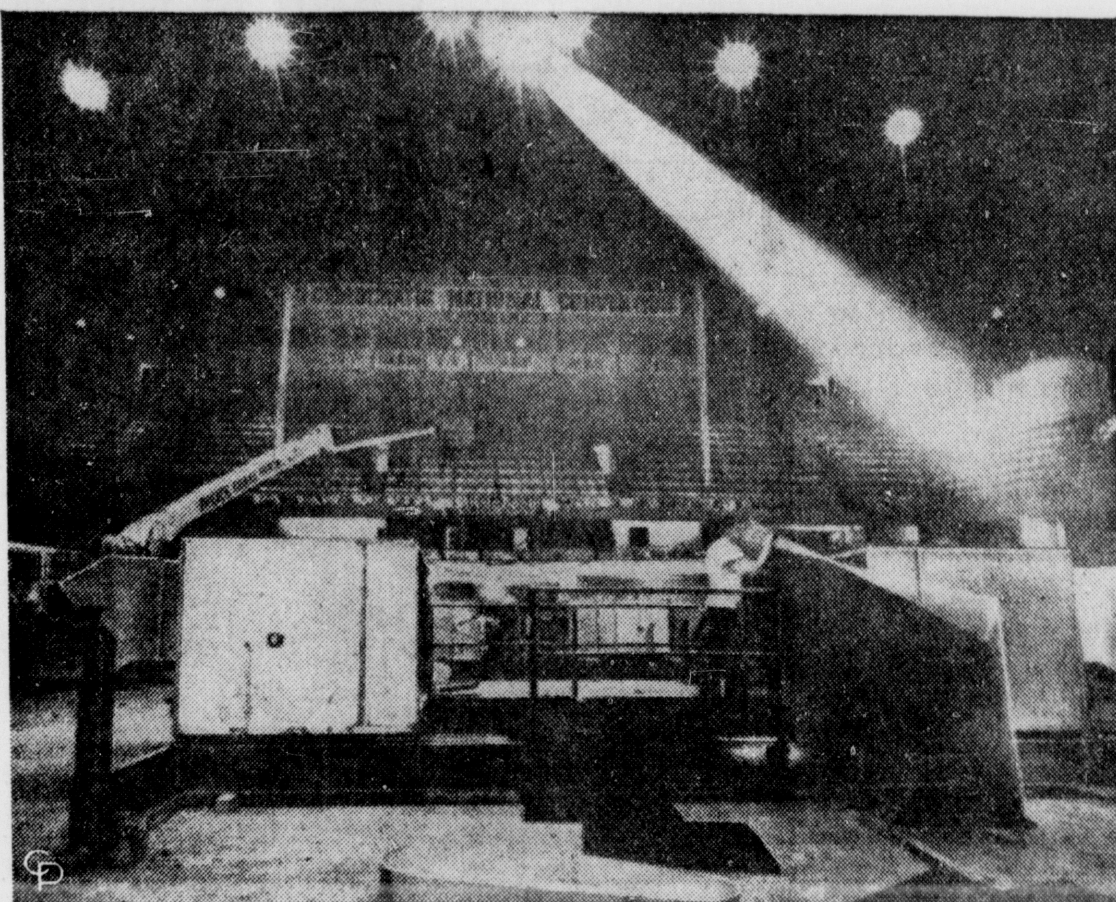

The Justice Department's Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs plans to send Congress fresh legislation to cover the sale and use of marijuana made in a laboratory, the Post said. Currently, federal law covers only natural marijuana which is grown.

Federal officials say marijuana was first made synthetically four years ago by an Israeli chemist. They say it is still extremely expensive to produce, the major factor that has kept it from the illegal drug market.

Federal officials fear, however, that the price is bound to come down as more chemists tinker with it.

"When this happens we may be in very deep trouble," one agent said.

Views on Television

By JOE GARAGIOLA

EDITOR'S NOTE—Joe, now a regular on NBC's "Today Show" and often working far away from the baseball field, graduated from big league catcher to the banquet circuit raconteur to sportscaster and—this year—to television interviewer and personality. Here he describes his most challenging, exciting moments: occupying Johnny Carson's hot seat.

NEW YORK (AP) — There I was, sitting in my office at NBC when the telephone rang and a voice told me a network vice president was calling.

I had some doubts about what he might want. I learned early in life about telephone calls from the boss. Like the time I was in the bull pen, and the manager called, "Joe, come on in, and bring your glove."

While I was thinking that I was going to get a chance to play, the manager said, "Del Rice (who was catching) broke the webbing on his glove, and he wants to borrow yours."

Each time I got a phone call from the general manager, I figured that I was going to be traded. It was amazing how many times I was right, too.

While I was thinking about these things, the man himself came on the line. He said, "Joe, Johnny Carson is going to take a couple of weeks off, and we were wondering how you'd feel about sitting in his chair for one of the weeks he is away."

I had some doubts, and there were some people I wanted to talk to before I accepted. I'd been on the "Tonight" show many times, often enough to realize that Johnny Carson's job is not as easy as he makes it look. I wondered whether I could handle it.

One man I wanted to talk to was Jack Paar who gave me my first big-time television shot on that same show, and out of that has grown a close friendship.

Little Variety in Diets

Of the hundreds of varieties of foodstuffs produced in the world, only 11 support the great preponderance of the population. There are many areas, particularly in Asia, Africa and South America, in which the bulk of the diet is provided by one or two indigenous crops, obviating the necessity of importing foods except for the palates of the wealthier.

Almost every nationality differs in its culinary taste and skills, but the basic ingredients almost always come from the same storehouse. Rice and wheat are the two most universal crops. It is difficult to find any segment of the earth in which people do not rely on one or the other.

Corn and potatoes are next in line of popularity, although more limited in availability than wheat or rice. Potatoes are not as easily exported as the grains because of their bulk and temperature requirements, and thus are largely limited to consumption on native soil. Much corn is transformed into meat.

Advanced agricultural countries like the United States and Canada enjoy all 11 staples. The other seven are sugar, cassava, coconut, banana, rye, beans and peas. Tapioca is derived from cassava.

North Americans also enjoy many rarer and more tantalizing delicacies. But even here wheat is the primary source of subsistence, just as combined with rice it feeds 80 percent of the rest of the world. And there is no shortage of wheat in sight.

According to Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — If you see your dentist twice a year, don't you think you ought to have your mind checked at least that often, too?

After all, if you lose a tooth, you can always buy a new one, but if the old brain loses some of its marbles, it's hard to stay in the game.

We're all so busy, busy, busy, however, that it is difficult for us to find time to get all the thorough, periodic, professional checkups we need.

So, for the prisoners of hurry and worry, here's an alternative—an easy, self-help way of solving that burning question of our times, "Am I normal and—if so—how normal."

It won't take long. Sit down and write yes-or-no answers to the following simple questions:

Do you lose your head when those around you are losing theirs—and blaming it on you?

Are you getting tired of people who seem to come to dinners and parties at your house three times as often as you find yourself attending dinners and parties at their homes?

After two martinis at lunch and three highballs in the evening, do you suddenly begin to think that you understand exactly what is going on in Vietnam?

Are you too educated to believe in astrology but too human to refrain from reading your daily horoscope if it's printed in your local newspaper?

Do you feel that the tax assessor is a political hack who has overvalued your house to make up for the fact that he has undervalued your neighbor's house, thereby raising your taxes unfairly?

On a rainy day at home do you now and then find yourself wondering about how different your life might have been if you hadn't married quite so young?

Are you beginning to think that perhaps the best way to solve the presidential scramble is to vote for the first guy who lands here from Mars?

Does everything that used to be simple and easy now seem to be more difficult and complex? Have you changed your brand of hair oil or deodorant and discovered it is still just as difficult to win promotion at the office or sweep the girls off their feet?

Do you proclaim to one and all that you remember what it is to be young but sturdily insist that you never behaved as oddly as young people today do?

Are you becoming suspicious of new joys and more comfortable with old boredom?

Do you think that the price of nearly everything has risen beyond all reason and suspect that 199,999,999 of your fellow Americans—plus nine-tenths of the population of the rest of the globe—are engaged in a gigantic conspiracy to rob you blind?

Are you depressed now and then by the feeling that you're losing touch with things—that either the world has gone crazy or you have?

Well, that's the test. Now for the score.

If you answered "yes" to each question, relax. You're as normal as you can expect to be in a mixed-up time—as normal as a fly on a blueberry pie.

But if you answered "no" to each question—kid, you're in trouble. You're out of this world, and don't know what's going on. You're adrift in your own dreamland, and had better pick up your oars and row your way back to reality.

Try and Stop Me

A STRAIT-LACED Boston minister, according to Charlie Rice, was horrified at the exaggerated miniskirts his pretty daughter persisted in wearing. One day he bumped into her on Boston Common and discovered that her skirt was even three inches shorter than usual. "Hello, daughter of Satan," thundered the outraged cleric. To which his daughter replied unabashedly, "Hi, Dad!"

"Take things in their stride and you'll live longer," was the constant advice of that remarkable lady, the late Grandma Moses. To illustrate her point, she liked to cite the apocryphal tale of the octogenarian who was knitting placidly when her granddaughter burst into the room shouting, "Papa's just fallen off the roof." "I know, my dear," nodded the old lady, not missing a stitch. "I saw him pass the window."

"Show me" challenges Tony Martin, "a woman who gets down on her hands and knees—and I'll show you a woman who's searching for her contact lenses."

Frank Rose suggests these two additions to the "Famous Last Words" contest: 1. "If I don't break a hundred this year, I'm giving up golf for good." 2. "Just wait till we women get the vote. We'll clean up this country mighty fast!"

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

In a large family such as ours there always seem to be an occasional need for X-rays of some part of the body. With five children, ranging from the age of eight to fourteen, an awful lot of questions are asked about how X-rays work. It occurred to us, the parents, that we needed more information than we had, to answer all of them.

Mr. A. E. N., Oklahoma Dear Mr. N.: Even when children know many of the answers they sometimes have a diabolical urge to find out how little their parents know. Their curiosity is limitless and I believe this avidity for all knowledge helps round them out as total human beings.

X-rays are short electromagnetic waves which occur in nature and can also be manufactured by man. The sun and some stars in far away galaxies express these waves. Man-made X-rays result from passing high voltage electricity through a vacuum tube and bombarding a metal object.

Normally if X-rays were "shot through the body" they would not be seen. When a highly sensitized film is placed behind the body, light and dark shadows are cast on the film when it is developed. Bone is seen on the plate as an opaque shadow. The heart, though not as dense as bone, casts a softer white area on the film. The lungs, when filled with air, are seen as black spaces bounded by the rib cage and the diaphragm. Any growth in the lung casts a special shadow which, to the trained eye, is immediately recognized as a variation from normal.

The blood vessels, nerves, intestinal tract, kidneys, bladder, and brain are some of the organs that are identified in health and disease by the use of X-rays with special dyes. The gall bladder, too, can be shown to be inflamed or filled with stones by X-rays.

People of all ages are affected by X-rays in the same way. There may be some changes in the bone structure which indicate a special age group. The amount of calcium in the bones of an adolescent is greater than in the elderly.

A fluoroscope is different from ordinary X-rays in that no permanent record is kept. The X-rays are seen on a viewing screen by the doctor. When there is further need for a detailed study, the X-ray film is used. I have often been asked if it is safe to have a child's shoes fitted after routine X-rays or fluoroscopy is done in the shoe store. I believe this is an unnecessary radiation hazard and too often is used as a "selling point" by shoe stores who gain no knowledge from this information. Abnormal feet are X-rayed by specialists in radiology and orthopedics and the information obtained is then relayed to the shoe fitting specialist.

The fear of radiation hazards has no basis in fact. You can be certain that the amount of radiation in regular X-rays of the chest and the teeth are of no danger. The physician, in choosing them, is particularly careful about over-exposure.

The reason why doctors wear heavy aprons and gloves is to keep them from over-exposure to X-rays since they work with this all day long. Patients have minimal radiation exposure. There are now many peace time values to atomic energy studies. Radioactive substances are now safely used to visualize, by X-ray, parts of the body that previously could not be seen. There are now studies of the breasts called mammography which reveal abnormalities in soft tissues previously not visible by X-rays.

Let's try this for a start with your children. If I am correct they'll find a question that neither you nor I can answer.

Solo Sailor Ends Voyage

PORTSMOUTH, England (AP) — Aec Rose woke up today after a good sleep in a stationary bed, went back to work at his vegetable shop and dismissed his round-the-world solo voyage as a selfish project—not very important.

Lavish headlines and editorials celebrated his homecoming Thursday from his 28,500-mile voyage in the 36-foot ketch Lively Lady, and the cheers of a crowd of 250,000 echoed through this historic English seaport, his hometown.

But Rose, 59, took it all as quietly as if it hardly mattered. He said he felt he had been a bit selfish—"just going off and doing something that I've always wanted to do since I was a child."

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — They might deny it, but it's a fact that some of your favorite restaurants are serving specialties of the house that were prepared and frozen in factories hundreds of miles away.

An industry representative claims that in one well known Eastern chain about 70 per cent of the meals are so prepared. Even gourmet meals of veal cordon bleu or filets de sole bonne femme are offered this way.

In some restaurants a frozen entree that cost 75 cents whole-oven for a prescribed time. The vegetables, also frozen, and the bread are added, along with any unique touch the restaurant might devise. Served in fine surroundings, the meal might cost $6.

"I don't think you or anybody else would know who made it," says Gerry Thomas, a former Nebraska farmboy and now frequently the man behind that semi anonymous tag, "industry spokesman."

In a restaurant, he agreed, "you would have an opinion of whether it was good or bad." But, he added, "since you wouldn't be thinking along certain lines you wouldn't detect the difference."

The trend to restaurant use of precooked dinners has been developing for several years, partly for convenience, partly because of a shortage of chefs and the rising cost of employing one: as much as $25,000 for a quality man. Regardless of price, however, there aren't nearly enough chefs.

With obvious disdain for their lack of foresight, Sam Martin, editor of an industry publication, remarked that "The kids today are taking up physics. They don't want to be cooks. It isn't glamorous."

Some claim also that precooked meals found increasing favor with restaurants when the minimum wage rose to $1.60 an hour in February. One frozen food executive claimed a growing trend "rapidly accelerated" about that time, presumably as restaurants turned to more automation.

The mass producer of frozen meals can buy in volume and can afford the most expensive chef to formulate recipes, laboratory technicians to "fabricate" them, and a stable labor force to run them down the assembly line.

The restaurant that uses the meals then can regulate its storage, cut waste, and employ relatively low-pay personnel to heat the meals. It also isn't restricted to serve only when a chef is on duty.

Present offerings include almost everything from hors d'oeuvres to soup to entree, sauces, desserts. Some of the best hotels no longer employ sauciers but instead melt frozen newburg or mushroom blends to spread on their best dishes.

Some companies in the frozen food business concentrate only on dishes that involve considerable preparation time, great complexity and high labor costs—on Stroganoff and lasagna, for example—ignoring the steaks and chops and other readily prepared dishes.

More precooked dinners also are being served in hospitals, nursing homes, schools and industrial cafeterias. University students reportedly are going big for precooked omelets, the airlines are considering offering them also.

The entire business—home and away from home—is now a $7-billion-a-year enterprise that is expected to double in size within the next 10 years. Thomas claims Americans average 65 pounds of frozen foods a year and will be eating 129 pounds by 1976.

And sometime within the next 10 years, says Martin, about 25 per cent of all mass feeding will be through use of meals prepared and frozen at a factory and merely heated at the point of consumption.

The Good Patriot Can Lose

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Richard Nixon put out an impressive statement commending the U.S. Senate for its decision to proceed with the deployment of the Sentinel anti-ballistic missile system, and the Soviet government immediately countered by suggesting that the whole subject of building defenses against missiles should be turned over to a conference on limitation.

So, looked at one way, a tough Senate combined with a tough Republican Presidential aspirant have succeeded in softening the Russians up a bit. It was only yesterday that the peace-at-any-price crowd was saying that a Senatorial decision to build a $5.5 billion AMB system designed as a defense against Red China would touch off a most expensive escalation of the arms race between Washington and Moscow. Now we can see that the brusque approach is of more use in peace-making than any amount of propitiatory fumbling.

What happened in the Senate was that a few people decided to talk right out loud about the way the Soviets have been drawing abreast of the U.S. in atomic missile capability. Democratic Senator Richard B. Russell of Georgia, the chairman of the Armed Services Committee, said that "I today cannot assure the Senate, as I have done year after year, that we are superior to any Soviet threat in the field of strategic missiles, because I do not know that to be the case, and I think there is a very grave doubt about it."

It was just a year ago that the Washington Report of the American Security Council, a non-governmental body, warned the nation that Soviet missile capacity had caught up with our own. And in the House of Representatives, Congressman Craig Hosmer, taking on Deputy Secretary of Defense Paul Nitze, said that the annual rate of Soviet increase ranged somewhere between 200 and 400 missiles. (Nitze put the Soviet gain at a lower figure, but he admitted that Moscow was catching up with the U.S.) The Administration, not wishing to provoke the Moscow animals, let the then Secretary of Defense, Robert McNamara, warn Congress against political pressures that would generate a "mad momentum" in the arms race. But the Soviets, believing, as Nixon has pointed out, that they are the best judges of their national security policies, went right ahead to build what they wanted.

The Russians, said Nixon in his statement, "are influenced, not by the admonitions of the American President or Secretary of Defense, but by their estimate of the balance of forces . . . For example, they have gone ahead with anti-ballistic missile defenses, regardless of Washington's offers to negotiate a moratorium."

The prospect that the U.S. might actually dare to change the "balance of forces" by building its own anti-ballistic missile system necessarily caused the Russians to sit up and take notice. But the Republicans and the Richard Russell Democrats in general, and Richard Nixon in particular, will get little credit for their good work in bringing Moscow to the point of talking anti-ballistic missile limitation.

What the Russian reaction points up is the ability of the Soviets to take a subtle hand in American Presidential elections. If the Administration actually succeeds in sitting down with the Soviets between now and November to discuss a detente — and a huge matter money-saving — in this matter of building anti-ballistic missile systems, the credit will go to Lyndon Johnson, and some of it will rub off on Hubert Humphrey. Moscow can just about control the attitudes of the more timorous American swing vote by offering peace lures of one type or another as election day approaches. Any time Dick Nixon takes a hard-line stance, as he did when he commended the Senate on its decision to go ahead with the Sentinel anti-ballistic missile system, Moscow can give a gentle tug to the political rug that is under his feet.

Nixon's problem, then, is how to make it plain to the voters that it is he, and not the Administration, who knows best how to get concessions out of Moscow. Bu, since it must be necessarily be LBJ who would necessarily be LBJ who would be appointing the peace negotiators and making a dramatic dash to visit Kosygin and Brezhnev in the Kremlin, how can Nixon compete with the Democrats for the headlines and the TV coverage? He may have to settle for the personal satisfaction of having been a good patriot.

Are you getting tired of people who seem to come to dinners and parties at your house three times as often as you find yourself attending dinners and parties at their homes?

After two martinis at lunch and three highballs in the evening, do you suddenly begin to think that you understand exactly what is going on in Vietnam?

Are your too educated to believe in astrology but too human to refrain from reading your daily horoscope if it's printed in your local newspaper?

Do you feel that the tax assessor is a political hack who has overvalued your house to make up for the fact that he has undervalued your neighbor's house, thereby raising your taxes unfairly?

On a rainy day at home do you now and then find yourself wondering aloud how different your life might have been if you hadn't married quite so young?

Are you beginning to think that perhaps the best way to solve the presidential scramble is to vote for the first guy who lands here from Mars?

Does everything that used to be simple and easy now seem to be more difficult and complex?

Have you changed your brand of hair oil or deodorant and discovered it is still just as difficult to win promotion at the office or sweep the girls off their feet?

Do you proclaim to one and all that you remember what it is to be young but still insist that you never behaved as oddly as young people today do?

Are you becoming suspicious of new joys and more comfortable with old boredom?

Do you think that the price of nearly everything has risen beyond all reason and suspect that 199,999,999 of your fellow Americans—plus nine-tenths of the population of the rest of the globe—are engaged in a gigantic conspiracy to rob you blind?

Are you depressed now and then by the feeling that you're losing touch with things—that either the world has gone crazy or you have?

Well, that's the test. Now for the score.

If you answered "yes" to each question, relax. You're as normal as you can expect to be in a mixed-up time—as normal as a fly on a blueberry pie.

But if you answered "no" to each question—kid, you're in trouble. You're out of this world, and don't know what's going on. You're adrift in your own dreamland, and had better pick up your oars and row your way back to reality.

Try and Stop Me

A STRAIT-LACED Boston minister, according to Charlie Rice, was horrified at the exaggerated miniskirts his pretty daughter persisted in wearing. One day he bumped into her on Boston Common and discovered that her skirt was even three inches shorter than usual. "Hello, daughter of Satan," thundered the outraged cleric. To which his daughter replied unabashedly, "Hi, Dad!"

"Take things in their stride and you'll live longer" was the constant advice of that remarkable lady, the late Grandma Moses. To illustrate her point, she liked to cite the apocryphal tale of the octogenarian who was knitting placidly when her granddaughter burst into the room shouting, "Papa's just fallen off the roof." "I know, my dear," nodded the old lady, not missing a stitch. "I saw him pass the window."

"Show me" challenges Tony Martin, "a woman who gets down on her hands and knees—and I'll show you a woman who's searching for her contact lenses."

Frank Rose suggests these two additions to the "Famous Last Words" contest: 1. "If I don't break a hundred this year, I'm giving up golf for good." 2. "Just wait till we women get the vote. We'll clean up this country mighty fast!"

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

In a large family such as ours there always seem to be an occasional need for X-rays of some part of the body. With five children, ranging from the age of eight to fourteen, an awful lot of questions are asked about how X-rays work. It occurred to us, the parents, that we needed more information than we had, to answer all of them.

Mr. A. E. N., Oklahoma Dear Mr. N.: Even when children know many of the answers they sometimes have a diabolical urge to find out how little their parents know. Their curiosity is limitless and I believe this avidity for all knowledge helps round them out as total human beings.

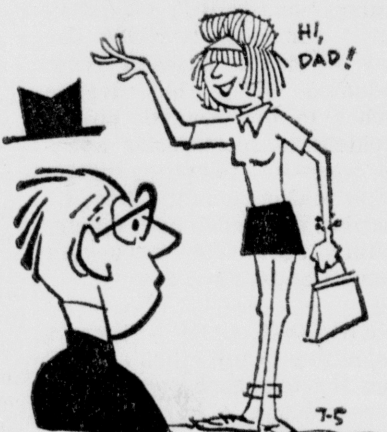

X-rays are short electromagnetic waves which occur in nature and can also be manufactured by man. The sun and some stars in far away galaxies express these waves. Man-made X-rays result from passing high voltage electricity through a vacuum tube and bombarding a metal object.

Normally if X-rays were "shot through the body" they would not be seen. When a highly sensitized film is placed behind the body, light and dark shadows are cast on the film when it is developed. Bone is seen on the plate as an opaque shadow. The heart, though not as dense as bone, casts a softer white area on the film. The lungs, when filled with air, are seen as black spaces bounded by the rib cage and the diaphragm. Any growth in the lung casts a special shadow which, to the trained eye, is immediately recognized as a variation from normal.

The blood vessels, nerves, intestinal tract, kidneys, bladder, and brain are some of the organs that are identified in health and disease by the use of X-rays with special dyes. The gall bladder, too, can be shown to be inflamed or filled with stones by X-rays.

People of all ages are affected by X-rays in the same way. There may be some changes in the bone structure which indicate a special age group. The amount of calcium in the bones of an adolescent is greater than in the elderly.

A fluoroscope is different from ordinary X-rays in that no permanent record is kept. The X-rays are seen on a viewing screen by the doctor. When there is further need for a detailed study, the X-ray film

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — They might deny it, but it's a fact that some of your favorite restaurants are serving specialties of the house that were prepared and frozen in factories hundreds of miles away.

An industry representative claims that in one well known Eastern chain about 70 per cent of the meals are so prepared. Even gourmet meals of veal cordon bleu or filets de sole bonne femme are offered this way.

In some restaurants a frozen entree that cost 75 cents whole-oven for a prescribed time. The vegetables, also frozen, and the bread are added, along with any unique touch the restaurant might devise. Served in fine surroundings, the meal might cost $6.

"I don't think you or anybody else would know who made it," says Gerry Thomas, a former Nebraska farmboy and now frequently the man behind the semi anonymous tag, "industry spokesman."

In a restaurant, he agreed, "you would have an opinion of whether it was good or bad." But, he added, "since you wouldn't be thinking along certain lines you wouldn't detect the difference."

The trend to restaurant use of precooked dinners has been developing for several years, partly for convenience, partly because of a shortage of chefs and the rising cost of employing one: as much as $25,000 for a quality man. Regardless of price, however, there aren't nearly enough chefs.

With obvious disdain for their lack of foresight, Sam Martin, editor of an industry publication, remarked that "The kids today are taking up physics. They don't want to be cooks. It isn't glamorous."

Some claim also that precooked meals found increasing favor with restaurants when the minimum wage rose to $1.60 an hour in February. One frozen food executive claimed a growing trend "rapidly accelerated" about that time, presumably as restaurants turned to more automation.

The mass producer of frozen meals can buy in volume and can afford the most expensive chef to formulate recipes, laboratory technicians to "fabricate" them, and a stable labor force to run them down the assembly line.

The restaurant that uses the meals then can regulate its storage, cut waste, and employ relatively low-pay personnel to heat the meals. It also isn't restricted to serve only when a chef is on duty.

Present offerings include almost everything from hors d'oeuvres to soup to entree, sauces, desserts. Some of the best hotels no longer employ sauciers but instead melt frozen newburg or mushroom blends to spread on their best dishes.

Some companies in the frozen food business concentrate only on dishes that involve considerable preparation time, great complexity and high labor costs—on Stroganoff and lasagna, for example—ignoring the steaks and chops and other readily prepared dishes.

More precooked dinners also are being served in hospitals, nursing homes, schools and industrial cafeterias. University students reportedly are going big for precooked omelets, the airlines are considering offering them also.

The entire business—home and away from home—is now a $7-billion-a-year enterprise that is expected to double in size within the next 10 years. Thomas claims Americans average 65 pounds of frozen foods a year and will be eating 129 pounds by 1976.

And sometime within the next 10 years, says Martin, about 25 per cent of all mass feeding will be through use of meals prepared and frozen at a factory and merely heated at the point of consumption.

The Good Patriot Can Lose

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Richard Nixon put out an impressive statement commending the U.S. Senate for its decision to proceed with the deployment of the Sentinel anti-ballistic missile system, and the Soviet government immediately countered by suggesting that the whole subject of building defenses against missiles should be turned over to a conference on limitation.

So, looked at one way, a tough Senate combined with a tough Republican Presidential aspirant have succeeded in softening the Russians up a bit. It was only yesterday that the peace-at-any-price crowd was saying that a Senatorial decision to build a $5.5 billion AMB system designed as a defense against Red China would touch off a most expensive escalation of the arms race between Washington and Moscow. Now we can see that the brusque approach is of more use in peace-making than any amount of propitiatory fumbling.

What happened in the Senate was that a few people decided to talk right out loud about the way the Soviets have been drawing abreast of the U.S. in atomic missile capability. Democratic Senator Richard B. Russell of Georgia, the chairman of the Armed Services Committee, said that "I today cannot assure the Senate, as I have done year after year, that we are superior to any Soviet threat in the field of strategic missiles, because I do not know that to be the case, and I think there is a very grave doubt about it."

It was just a year ago that the Washington Report of the American Security Council, a non-governmental body, warned the nation that Soviet missile capacity had caught up with our own. And in the House of Representatives, Congressman Craig Hosmer, taking on Deputy Secretary of Defense Paul Nitze, said that the annual rate of Soviet increase ranged somewhere between 200 and 400 missiles. (Nitze put the Soviet gain at a lower figure, but he admitted that Moscow was catching up with the U.S.) The Administration, not wishing to provoke the Moscow animals, let the then Secretary of Defense, Robert McNamara, warn Congress against political pressures that would generate a "mad momentum" in the arms race. But the Soviets, believing, as Nixon has pointed out, that they are the best judges of their national security policies, went right ahead to build what they wanted.

The Russians, said Nixon in his statement, "are influenced, not by the admonitions of the American President or Secretary of Defense, but by their estimate of the balance of forces... For example, they have gone ahead with anti-ballistic missile defenses, regardless of Washington's offers to negotiate a moratorium."

The prospect that the U.S. might actually dare to change the "balance of forces" by building its own anti-ballistic missile system necessarily caused the Russians to sit up and take notice. But the Republicans and the Richard Russell Democrats in general, and Richard Nixon in particular, will get little credit for their good work in bringing Moscow to the point of talking anti-ballistic missile limitation.

What the Russian reaction points up is the ability of the Soviets to take a subtle hand in American Presidential elections. If the Administration actually succeeds in sitting down with the Soviets between now and November to discuss a detente—and a huge mutual money-saving—in this matter of building anti-ballistic missile systems, the credit will go to Lyndon Johnson, and some of it will rub off on Hubert Humphrey. Moscow can just about control the attitudes of the more timorous American swing vote by offering peace lectures of one type or another as election day approaches. Any time Dick Nixon takes a hard-line stance, as he did when he commended the Senate on its decision to go ahead with the Sentinel anti-ballistic missile system, Moscow can give a gentle tug to the political rug that is under his feet.

Nixon's problem, then, is how to make it plain to the voters that it is he, and not the Administration, who knows best how to get concessions out of Moscow. But, since it must necessarily be LBJ who would necessarily be LBJ who would be appointing the peace negotiators and making a dramatic dash to visit Kossygin and Brezhnev in the Kremlin, how can Nixon compete with the Democrats for the headlines and the TV coverage? He may have to settle for the personal satisfaction of having been a good patriot.

Soviet educators, according to the Moscow newspaper Trud, have devised a way to teach a person a foreign language in a week—during which the student, locked in a padded cell, is bombarded with lessons for 14 hours a day. Crazy man, crazy!

Despite the Soviet system's concentrated, all-out study we're afraid, after only a week of it, any foreign language would still sound like Greek to us.

Boor's Manners Need a Manicure

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend who is highly successful in his field, well educated, well traveled, and respected in this community, BUT when he is present, no one else can get a word in.

I cannot recall ever having been in this man's company when he didn't take the floor and hold it all evening. Granted, he is charming and entertaining, but there have been times when other interesting guests could have added something worthwhile to the conversation. But this man's voice is the only one that's heard.

Just what does one do about a person like this?

IRKED

DEAR IRKED: In the absence of a "friend to tell this boor that his manners need manicuring, an enemy will do. A guest who comes to the party and hogs all the conversation is no better than one who hogs all the food.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I, our three children (ages 8, 10, and 13) were invited to a relative's home for supper recently. She had one large table set for the adults and another one for the children.

My daughter, age 13, came to me and said she wasn't going to sit with the "babies. (Two of her 12-year-old cousins were sitting) at that table and they didn't complain. (I told her not to make a fuss and to go sit down and be quiet. Being a very head-strong child, she raised her voice a bit and said she would rather go home. Well, I wasn't about to take her home and I couldn't let her walk home alone at night, so in order to avoid a scene I told her to go get her chair and to sit by me, which she did.

I dislike scenes in public and I still think I did the right thing. My husband said I should have told the spoiled little stinker to either sit where she was put or to go into the bedroom and sulk. What is your opinion?

BROOKLYN

DEAR BROOKLYN: With such a smart husband, why are you writing to Dear Abby?

DEAR ABBY: First, let me explain that I am not some kind of nut, neither am I a sex maniac, which is what most people think when they learn that I am a nudist.

I took up nudism eight years ago and I can't say enough for it. It is the greatest equalizer in the world. At a nudist camp there is complete honesty. A person is what he is, and he can't fool anybody with fancy clothes. It takes a genuinely honest person to go before his fellow man just as God made him, willing to be judged strictly on his character, personality, and true self.

The sun is nature's best medicine. Why cover the body and diminish its healthful rays?

I am not trying to sell nudism to people who think it's "dirty". They wouldn't make good nudists anyway. I just want to say a few words in defense of some of the most misunderstood people in the world. Thank you.

Trinity Lutheran Church
Site for June Wedding

MRS. LAWRENCE D. ECCARD

Pastor Carl Zehner performed the double ring ceremony June 15, in Trinity Lutheran Church uniting in marriage Miss Linda Lee Benzenberg and Lawrence D. Eccard.

The church altar was adorned with yellow snapdragons, majestic daisies and white gladioli in the altar vases and arrangements of white gladioli and yellow daisies. White satin bows marked the pews.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. L. D. Varble, 526 Northridge Road, and the late Dr. Henry C. Benzenberg. Mr. Eccard is the son of Mrs. Roselyn Eccard, 163 W. Mound St. and the late Charles Eccard.

Mrs. Thomas Downing organist, and Ronald Driesbach, vocalist, presented a program of nuptial music.

Escorted to the altar by Mr. L. D. Varble, the bride chose for her wedding a white formal length point d'esprit and Venice lace over peau-de-soie cage gown. The bodice was overlaid with Venice lace motifs, a square neckline edged with delicate lace edging and brief sleeves. Bands of lace ran vertically down the gown and lace edged the hemline. Her detachable train of point d'esprit fell gracefully from mid-back to chapel length. Her bouffant veil of silk illusion was held in place by a high Venice lace tiara accented with seed pearls. She carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations and yellow roses.

Miss Nancy Benzenberg, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Ann Boler and Carolee Cluxton. The attendants chose formal length lemon dotted Swiss A-line gowns. The empire bodices were enhanced with white velvet ribbon, scooped necklines and brief Venice lace sleeves. Their headresses were yellow bows covered with seed pearls and short illusion veils. They each carried one long stemmed yellow rose.

Christie Boldoser was flower girl and ringbearer was Todd Boldoser, both cousins of the bride.

Steve Bowers served as best man with Craig Benzenberg, brother of the bride, and Jack Varble as ushers.

Mrs. Varble was attired in a delicate pink crepe A-line dress with a pink ruffled over-coat.

She wore pink accessories and a corsage of pink sweetheart roses. Mrs. Eccard wore an ocean blue A-line dress with matching accessories and a corsage of yellow sweetheart roses.

A reception at Pickaway Arms immediately followed the wedding. The five tiered white decorated cake was encircled with yellow roses and fern. White lighted tapers in silver candelabra and yellow roses in bud vases and green, yellow and white mints carried out the color theme.

Hostesses were Rebecca Alkire and Diane Benzenberg cousins of the bride, Loche MacKenzie and Jill Jenkins.

The couple left for a motor trip to Florida and a flight to Jamaica. The bride wore for her going-away costume a coat dress of yellow trimmed in white lace with white accessories.

The bride is a graduate of Circleville High School and Christ Hospital School of Nursing in Cincinnati.

The groom, also a graduate of Circleville High School, was graduated from Texas A and M University. He will receive one year of flight training at Randolph Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas, where the couple will reside.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Benzenberg, grandparents of the bride, of Teaneck, N. J.; K. Benzenberg, uncle of the bride and his daughter Diane of Oakland, N.J.; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Riggins, of Florida; great uncle of the bride, Orin Dresbach of Cincinnati, uncle of the groom, and others from Michigan, Indiana, New York and Texas.

Boy Is Shot
At Massillon

MASSILLON, Ohio (AP) — Nine-year-old Mike Santo was sitting on a bench with swimming companions near here Thursday when he slumped forward and cried, "I've been shot!"

The youth was reported in critical condition after undergoing surgery at Massillon City Hospital.

Police are hunting for two men seen driving away in a white convertible with the top down. Witnesses said one of the men fired four shots about 250 yards from the boys, who were swimming at Crystal Lake Park seven miles north of Massillon.

The weapon used was a .22-caliber but police did not know if it was a rifle or hand gun. One slug hit the Santo youth in the groin and passed through his body.

Wedding Ceremony Read
In Park of Roses Garden

The Elliptical Garden in the Park of Roses, Columbus, was the scene of the ceremony uniting in marriage Miss Ellen Kay Snyder and John Warren Langham, Saturday, June 29.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William D. Snyder of Ashville, and the groom is the son of Mrs. A. W. Langham of Columbus.

Preceding the double ring ceremony performed by the Rev. William H. Sherertz of the Ashville United Methodist Church, a program of nuptial music was presented by an instrumental quintet from Whetstone High School.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, approached the altar in a full length gown of antique white satin with lace sleeves and trim. The lace train flowed in pleats from the waist and a fingertip veil of illusion completed her costume. She carried a colonial bouquet of white daisies.

Miss Janet Snyder was her sister's maid of honor. She was attired in a yellow floor length gown of linen-like serano with matching hat. Her bouquet was of daisies and baby's breath. Bridesmaids were Mrs. David Siegfried, a friend of the brides, from Cincinnati, and Miss Susan Jacobs, from Newark. They wore gowns and carried bouquets identical to the maid of honor's.

Frank Fletcher served as best man with Roy Kurtz and Joe Marshall seating the guests. Karl Snyder, brother of the bride, acted as junior usher.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at the Clintonville Women's Club.

The bride attended Ohio State University and is a junior at St. Francis School of Nursing. Mr. Langham is a graduate of Ohio State University and is presently teaching at Whetstone High School, Columbus.

After a wedding trip to Niagara Falls and the Eastern states, the couple will reside at 2623 Glenmawr, Columbus.

Viet Veterans
Have Reunion
Atop Building

BOSTON (AP) — Five Vietnam veterans kept a date Thursday at the top of the 750-foot Prudential Tower.

They'd made the date two years ago while serving together. Their reunion "tickets" were the quarters of a dollar bill, carried by four, and a strip of tape to stick the pieces together again.

Lee Balzano, 24, of Concord, thought up the dollar bill angle, kept one piece, and gave the others to Stephen Mahoney of Everett, Stephen Harvey of Stoughton, and Rodney Julian of Brookline. John Ferolite of Marlboro, the fifth man, brought the sticking tape.

A building representative refunded the 50 cent charges they'd paid for the elevator trip to the tower.

Vandals Burn
July 4 Float

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, Ill. (AP) — There were charred gaps in the chicken wire and papier-mache float depicting the Iwo Jima flag raising and the globe calling for world peace was blackened by the flames of the fire set by vandals.

The July Fourth parade judges noted the signs tacked to the damaged float: "Where was your child at 12:50 last night? Could he have burned this American flag and float?"

Bob Lierman, his wife, and 20 teen-agers worked late Wednesday finishing the float. After the vandals struck, Mrs. Lierman said, "We were heartbroken but our neighbors urged us to enter it in the parade anyway."

The judges awarded the Lierman float first prize.

Tyme Airlines

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland-based Wright Air Lines today acquired Tyme Airlines Inc. of Columbus for an undisclosed amount of Wright stock, estimated in aviation circles to be valued at about $250,000.

Dog Attack 2 Years Ago Is Erased

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Two years and 270 surgical stitches after 9-year-old Billy Hines rescued a playmate from a snarling dog, smiles have returned to the lad's face.

Plastic surgery has erased nearly all signs of the mauling inflicted by Rex, a husky German shepherd, when Billy, then 7, stepped between it and Robbie Ellenberger, then 2.

"For two years he couldn't smile," said Billy's mother, Mrs. William Hines. "He was self-conscious. They called him Scarface."

"That dog was going to hurt Robbie," Billy said.

He recalled that he had pulled Robbie in a little red wagon, accompanied by their parents, to a neighborhood store, when Rex lunged at Robbie. He said he jumped in and pushed Robbie away.

"The dog scratched my elbow and it hurt," Billy said. "Then he bit my face but I didn't feel that so much."

Robbie was unhurt.

Billy will have to go to the hospital periodically until his surgery is completed. That will be when he's 18.

Kiesinger Testifies On Jews

BONN, Germany (AP) — West German Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger says he felt "something not quite right" was happening to the Jews in Nazi Germany near the end of World War II.

"But it was not until after the war that I got to know about the whole magnitude of his operation," he former deputy head of the radio propaganda department in the Third Reich Foreign Ministry told a war crimes trial judge Thursday.

Kiesinger said at first he had discounted allied charges about Nazi mass extermination of Jews as "nothing but atrocity propaganda."

"It was simply inconceivable to me that such terrible things were happening," he said.

Kiesinger was summoned as a witness in the trial of two Third Reich diplomats, Adolf Beckerle and Fritz Gebhard von Hahn. It was the first time a West German government chief had appeared before a trial court, and the court came specially from Frankfurt to take his testimony.

Beckerle, Hitler's onetime ambassador to Bulgaria, is charged with the deportation and assistance in the murder of 11,343 Jews. Von Hahn, his former assistant, is accused of complicity.

St. Francis School of Nursing. Mr. Langham is a graduate of Ohio State University and is presently teaching at Whetstone High School, Columbus.

LBJ Sets Talks with Barrientos

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson, after observing an old fashioned Fourth of July, mixes relaxation with a little ranch-style diplomacy today before taking off for a weekend Central American summit conference in El Salvador.

The President and First Lady flew to San Antonio Thursday and spent three hours at Hemis Fair where Johnson indulged in some traditional patriotic rhetoric, took in the sights and sampled a couple of rather drippy ice cream cones.

The President also issued a statement late in the day expressing deep concern over disruption by hecklers of a speaking appearance by presidential aspirant George Wallace.

Johnson today informally entertains President Rene Barrientos Ortuño of Bolivia at his ranch home. Barrientos was in Texas for Bolivia Day Saturday at Hemis Fair. The Latin chief executive once attended Air Force flight school at Randolph Air Force Base in San Antonio.

Johnson will fly to El Salvador Saturday for talks with the chief executives of Guatemala, Honduras, Nicaragua, Costa Rica and El Salvador. He will remain there until Monday.

Touring the fairgrounds with Johnson Thursday were about 40 diplomats, most of them ambassadors from Latin American countries.

Woman Is Slain In Gun Accident

CLEVELAND (AP) — A 20-year-old east side woman was accidentally shot to death Thursday when a mother struggled to take a shotgun away from her 2-year-old son.

Killed was Carol Ann Butler. The incident occurred during a party at the home of William Latten, 21. The gun belonged to Latten's roommate, Essex L. Alexander, 29, who told officers he kept it in the home for protection.

Draft Laws Explained

EDITOR'S NOTE: In an effort to create a greater public understanding of the laws and regulations governing the induction of personnel into the Armed Forces, the Selective Service System has prepared a series of pertinent questions and corresponding responses concerning provisions of the draft law. Here is another in the series.

Q: Where may a person volunteer for induction?

A: A registrant may volunteer for induction only through his own local board. If a man has not been registered, he may register then volunteer, but may do so only through the local board having jurisdiction of the area in which his place of residence is located.

Q: I am a college senior, hoping to attend graduate school. Can I receive an Armed Forces physical examination prior to my graduation to determine if I am acceptable so I can make plans accordingly?

A: Selective Service Regulations provide that if induction may shortly occur, the local board may order a registrant to report for an Armed Forces physical examination, however, such action is not mandatory. The local board's first concern is to fill their call from those classified in Classes I-A, I-A-O or I-O. If time, space and funds are available, the local board may comply with your request. It is suggested you contact your own local board for this determination.

Q: If there is a substantial increase in calls from the Department of Defense, will those in Class II-A be reclassified before those in III-A, or vice versa?

A: Neither one. There is no prescribed sequence for review of reclassification. It is noted, however, that classification in Class II-A is limited to one year. At the time of expiration, the case will be reopened and considered anew. The II-A may be continued if circumstances warrant or a new classification given, if appropriate.

A-WEAPONS limitation and reduction talks will begin "in the nearest future" between the U.S. and Soviet. President Johnson announces in Washington on the heels of the signing of the non-proliferation treaty.

HONOLULU (AP) — Good students in Hawaii will be rewarded with lower automobile insurance costs, reports the Hawaii Casualty and Surety Rating Bureau.

Under the new plan, students in the upper 20 per cent of their classes in high school and college will be eligible for discounts on car insurance of 15 to 25 per cent.

"The good student discount is being placed in effect because students in the top portion of their classes are more mature and responsible drivers," a spokesman for the bureau said.

Japanese Youth Tours America On Bicycle

ON TOUR — Yoshihiro Nakashima, 21, is touring the United States by bicycle. He has been in Canada and many states since beginning his tour in early April in the state of Washington.

Yoshihiro Nakashima, 21, of Matsumoto, Japan, spent the night in Circleville.

Nakashima is touring the United States on a bicycle. He left the state of Washington two and one-half months ago.

Heading for the east coast, he has cycled through the states of Washington and Oregon, Idaho, Wyoming, Colorado, Texas, Arkansas, Tennessee, Kentucky and Ohio.

He plans to go to Washington D.C. and then cycle up the coast to New York.

WHENEVER possible, Nakashima avoids the heavily traveled highways, preferring the roads carrying the lesser amount of traffic even if they are longer.

Last night, he slept in the hotel. He left his bicycle at the Circleville Police Station for safekeeping.

The 21-year-old Japanese citizen has spent the night in city halls, churches, camping along the road and with families he has met during his travels.

From Circleville he plans to travel to Lancaster and then on to Marietta. Nakashima is in the United States on vacation. He said he has always wanted to tour the U.S.

Although he accepts work when he can find it, he noted that it is difficult to find a job while traveling.

ARRESTED IN CUBA — Capt. Jorge Prelezzo, pilot of a Southeast Airlines DC-3 plane forced to fly to Cuba, was arrested by Cuban authorities as a "defector." The flight was from Miami to Key West.

Let's Tour Ohio

Contrast of New, Old
Seen in Southwest Ohio

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of a series of short trips to top Ohio travel attractions prepared for the Circleville Herald by the Columbus Auto Club Travel Department.

Hueston Woods State Lodge, considered by some the symbol of Ohio's new interest in luring the traveler, can be the beginning, the end or the only reason for a drive into southwestern Ohio.

But the lodge and the excellent state park, in which it is located (on Ohio 732) are not the only attractions on this tour which skirts the urban centers in the area.

The new 94-room lodge, with eye-catching "A" frame architecture, has many recreational facilities, including indoor and outdoor pools, while the park has a new public beach as well as fishing, boating, hiking and other outdoor activities. There also are 59 cabins and about 800 camping sites.

Further south on Ohio 732, in Oxford, is the campus of Miami University, and the home of William Holmes McGuffey, famed author of the children's primers, now a museum of books and furnishings. Hours are 2 to 4:30 p.m., Tuesday, Saturday and Sunday.

Two excellent examples of LEAVING FORD—Arjay Miller (above), vice chairman of the board of Ford Motor Co. in Detroit, will leave his high-paying position to become dean of Stanford University's graduate school of business in Stanford, Calif., July 1 next year.

Approve Loan
To Central State

WILBERFORCE, Ohio (AP)—The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Renewal has approved a loan of $1,660,000 to Central State University here for construction of two women's dormitories.

The university said construction of the five-story buildings, to house 300 students, will begin in January, with completion scheduled in March 1970.

By RALPH DIGHTON
AP Science Writer

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Man's age-old desire to see an atom may be fulfilled in a year or so.

Two of the sharpest tools of modern science—the electron microscope and the computer—have been teamed up in a project to make this incredibly tiny building block of all matter visible for the first time.

First goal of the project is to unlock the secret of genes, the living blueprints of heredity which may enable biologists someday to control evolution.

If successful the same technique would tell physicists more about nuclear energy, the key to a long-promised Golden Age of almost limitless power.

Electron microscopes, capable of magnifying 500,000 times compared with the 1,000-magnification of microscopes using light, have already probed deep into complex molecules, showing how each is made up of thousands of atoms.

But the sharpest electron microscope image yet photographed does not quite get down to the ultimate: the atom. Structures less than five atoms in diameter simply do not show up.

A technique for seeing better in the microcosms of the very small is under study at the California Institute of Technology's Jet Propulsion Laboratory.

Dr. Robert Nathan, the scientist who worked out a way to use computers to improve spacecraft pictures of the moon and Mars, plans to link computers with electron microscopes and thus photograph a single atom.

"What we are doing now is studying the feasibility of such a technique," Nathan said in an interview, "building the hook-ups between the computer, the electron microscope and the camera."

"We expect to have much of this done in six months or so, and then we can get on with the proving of methods and actual research. It's always hard to say just how fast research will go but with luck we could be taking pictures of atoms in a year or so."

The reason optical microscopes can't see an atom is that light waves are too blunt. The distance from trough to crest,

Nathan says, is about half a micron. A micron is a microscopic unit of measure in the metric system and there are one million of them in a meter, which is about 40 inches.

There is an even smaller unit of measure, known as the angstrom. An angstrom is one ten-thousandth of a micron. Nathan figures the size of an atom as about one angstrom, so a light wave is thousands of times thicker than an atom. An atom couldn't begin to reflect anything as big as a light wave.

They are parts of atoms—they are the energetic particles which whirl around the nucleus of an atom. An atom can reflect a beam of electrons and so, theoretically, should be photographable by cameras sensitive to electrons instead of light.

Electron microscopes haven't yet been able to photograph an atom, Nathan says, because stains used to provide contrast between various structures in a molecule also cause distortion. The stain spreads among the atoms, blocking too many of the electrons and making the image fuzzy. If no stain were used, the true structure or at least the shape of the atom should become apparent.

Some of the best electron images made so far are of genes, long strings of deoxyribonucleic acid, DNA, in the nucleus of cells and viruses. These strings are believed to be entwined in double-spiral form in living tissue but in laboratory tests they flatten out like chains of beads tossed on a dresser top.

The beads in the chain are believed to be atoms strung to-

Shoe Business
Executive Dies

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP)—Paul G. Williams, 69, widely known shoe business executive who was chairman of the board of the Williams Manufacturing Co., died Thursday in his home of a heart attack.

Surviving are the widow, Mabel; his mother, Mrs. Gran Williams of Portsmouth, and three sons, all of St. Louis, Mo., where Williams formerly owned the Soms Shoe Co.

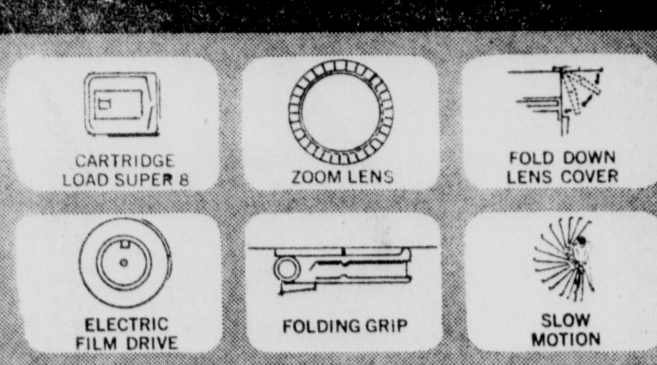

The Romans at the height of their power were fond of sweet raisins. It was a rare occasion for a slave to eat raisins. The act of eating a necklace of raisins was the dramatic gesture of freedom from slavery.

Let's Tour Ohio

Contrast of New, Old Seen in Southwest Ohio

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of a series of short trips to top Ohio travel attractions prepared for the Circleville Herald by the Columbus Auto Club Travel Department.

Hueston Woods State Lodge, considered by some the symbol of Ohio's new interest in luring the traveler, can be the beginning, the end or the only reason for a drive into southwestern Ohio.

But the lodge and the excellent state park, in which it is located (on Ohio 732) are not the only attractions on this tour which skirts the urban centers in the area.

The new 94-room lodge, with eye-catching "A" frame architecture, has many recreational facilities, including indoor and outdoor pools, while the park has a new public beach as well as fishing, boating, hiking and other outdoor activities. There also are 59 cabins and about 800 camping sites.

Further south on Ohio 732, in Oxford, is the campus of Miami University, and the home of William Holmes McGuffey, famed author of the children's primers, now a museum of books and furnishings. Hours are 2 to 4:30 p.m., Tuesday, Saturday and Sunday.

Two excellent examples of pre-historic Indian culture are Fort Ancient, on Ohio 350, and the Miamisburg Mound, on Ohio 725.

Fort Ancient is a defensive earthwork of walls four to 23 feet high encircling about 100 acres. It was constructed by the Hopewells and later was inhabited by the Fort Ancients. There is a new museum depicting the religion and culture of the two Indian civilizations.

Miamisburg is the largest and best conical mound in Ohio — 68 feet high and covering over one and one-half acres.

Between the two Indian attractions is Lebanon, which has the Glendower Memorial, a beautifully restored and authentically furnished Greek revival mansion built in 1836 by J. Milton Williams.

Glendower and Fort Ancient Museum are open 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. except Monday.

Also at Lebanon is the renowned Golden Lamb Inn, famed for having entertained 16 U.S. Presidents and other distinguished guests, including Charles Dickens. It still offers overnight facilities, but now is better known for its fine restaurant.

AAA suggests this routing to the tour area. From Circleville go west on U.S. 22 to Washington Court House and Jct. with U.S. 35; northwest on U.S. 35 to Jct. with I-71; south on I-71 to Jct. with Ohio Route 123; northwest on Ohio Route 123 to Lebanon and the tour area.

Wheat Farmers Indicate Crop To Run Average

Pickaway County wheat growers began harvesting operations this week and early reports indicate an average yield.

Some areas, such as the lowlands, will not yield as high as other areas, according to County Extension Agent, George Hamrick. But others may produce yields of more than 40 bushels per acre.

Last year, 40,400 acres of Pickaway County were planted with wheat. This year, there is a slight increase up to around 41,000 acres. Hamrick estimates the average county yield will be around 37 to 38 bushels per acre this season.

The 1966-67 yield was 34 bushels per acre, due to a dry season.

Stoutsville Tot Injured By Motorcycle

A 4½-year-old Stoutsville boy received multiple laceration and abrasions when he was struck by a motorcycle as he played along County Road 12 in Fairfield County 1:05 p.m. Tuesday just north of Tarlton.

Brent Thomas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Thomas, Route 1, Stoutsville, was treated and released in Berger Hospital for his injuries.

He was struck by a motorcycle operated by Jimmy Alan Thomas, 18, Circleville. The Thomas man told Fairfield County Sheriff's Department that he was southbound on the road when the accident occurred.

A truck approached his motorcycle and went left of center. He swerved to the right shoulder to avoid the truck. The child darted into the street and his head was bumped by the motorcycle handlebars.

No citations were issued by the Fairfield County Sheriff's Department.

From the Banks of Deercreek WILLIAMSPORT NEWS

By Ron Beatty — Phone 986-2581

Come to Williamsport! Satisfy your fishing pleasure and palate from a rushing stream teeming with fighting fish waiting to be fried. Enjoy the miles of forested banks covered with luxuriant, exciting, beautiful wildflowers and see that place where the sound of running water makes constant music and the lovely curves and arches rise against a sky that seems forever blue. That is Deercreek at the bridge in case you didn't recognize it.

If anybody made any news this week they either didn't want it known or didn't let me know. I've had all I can handle taking care of the boys anyway. My wife has been gone for three weeks. Why? Needed rest. I counted my money. "I've got enough," I said, "for 1,000 miles." "Where will that take me?" she asked. We looked at the map. "South," I said. "You should almost make it to Cuba." "Cuba! In the summer?" "We'll, North, you can go to Lake Abitibi in Canada," "Mosquitoes and flies? Ugh!" "Try East then, no bugs there and you should stay cool in the middle of the Atlantic Ocean." "No, I want to go to Nebraska." Sister lives there.

Daughter went along. They wanted to take a train... see more country, they said. Real reason... Afraid to fly. Neither had rode a train. Worried about luggage, connections, etc. "Simple," I said, "I'll check your luggage through and they always announcing a train. "Wallaillopit-station just as they were announcing a train. "Wallaillopit-fornew!" the man said. "See just like I told you. She stared at me. "Do you know what he said?" "Sure. Wallaillopit-fornew!" I replied. "Come on and I'll check your luggage."

"Won't get there for three days," said the man. "Has to go through Cincinnati." I never knew this and wouldn't have guessed it. Why your luggage has to go through Cincinnati and you don't go near the place was a mystery to me. "Why doesn't it go the same way as the passengers?" I stupidly asked. "No reason, just our policy," he said. "Just take it with you. Plenty of Red Caps," I said encouragingly. Found out later Red Caps were either on strike or vacation.

Trouble started early. Promised the boys we would go swimming first day off. Got up. North wind blowing. Temperature around 50. Rain coming down in sheets. "Are we going swimming?" they asked. "No." "Why not?" Explained about survival chances in ice water. They

Bloody Nigerian War Continues

LAGOS (AP) — Nigeria, a country of vast potential riches and the most populous nation in Africa, continues to wallow in a bloody, year-old civil war and efforts to arrange a cease-fire have so far been futile.

The federal government in Lagos holds the upper hand in the fighting and has occupied large chunks of the secessionist Eastern Region—Biafra—and most of the area's major cities.

Both sides would like to end the conflict that has driven the country to the edge of ruin, created millions of refugees in Biafra and killed untold numbers of Nigerians.

But cease-fire negotiations in May broke down in disagreement over conditions. The Biafrans want an unconditional cease-fire and withdrawal of federal troops. Lagos wants assurances, before it withdraws its forces, that Biafra will rejoin the federation as three separate states.

Contacts are continuing and there is a possibility new talks may begin in London.

Meanwhile, the situation in Biafra grows more and more desperate. There are an estimated 4.5-million refugees in what is left of Biafra and a generation of youngsters in the area is being crippled by protein starvation, relief officials say.

International relief agencies say that as many as a million Biafrans will die of starvation before the end of summer unless more food can be supplied to the Biafrans, now jammed into about 10,000 square miles of what already was the most densely populated territory of Africa.

The area is under tight blockade by the Lagos government and the federal air force of Soviet-built MIGs and Czech-made Delfins controls the air. Federal capture in May of Port Harcourt, Biafra's largest city and its main depot for airlifted supplies, tightened the ring on Biafra.

In June, Biafra began broadcasting appeals for massive relief shipments and said refugees were dying by the thousands.

To maintain its stance of independence from Lagos, Biafra does not want the aid passed through federal hands.

But in New York this week, a federal spokesman said: "All ports and major airports are in federal hands so it is impossible to channel supplies to Biafran refugees without going through federal authorities."

Chief Anthony Enahoro, negotiator for the federal government, said of reports that millions of Biafrans will starve in the next few months, "It is quite clear they are attempting to exploit the sympathies of the outside world for the purpose of their military interests."

"There is an attempt to blame us for the effects of the war," said Enahoro. "The quickest way to stop all this is for them to stop secession."

He said the federal government has left open avenues for supplies to reach Biafra and has offered trucks to move relief supplies. "But the rebels say, oh, no. What they want is an unconditional cease-fire."

He blamed Biafra for delays in reaching a cease-fire.

Nigeria seemed to have a bright future in 1960 when it gained independence from Britain. It had an estimated $55-million people and huge untapped resources. But seething tribal animosity finally brought the country to civil war.

Wheat Farmers Indicate Crop To Run Average

Pickaway County wheat growers began harvesting operations this week and early reports indicate an average yield.

Some areas, such as the lowlands, will not yield as high as other areas, according to County Extension Agent, George Hamrick. But others may produce yields of more than 40 bushels per acre.

Last year, 40,400 acres of Pickaway County were planted with wheat. This year, there is a slight increase up to around 41,000 acres. Hamrick estimates the average county yield will be around 37 to 38 bushels per acre this season.

The 1966-67 yield was 34 bushels per acre, due to a dry season.

JESSE Peart, who harvested 58 acres of wheat in Wayne

Twp., began combining Monday afternoon and wrapped it up Wednesday. "This was better than other years," he reported. "I estimate the yield around 40 bushels per acre, but that's just a guess."

Peart indicated his crop was dry, with a test reading of 11-12 per cent moisture. He put out his wheat early last fall and it boosted his crop.

Last year's wheat crop netted nearly $1,700,000 for county farmers with a support price of $1.20 per bushel. This year, the price rose to $1.22 and that, along with more acreage and higher yields, will bring more than $1,900,000 to county farmers.

Corn still leads the county production list, bringing in around $7 million last year, according to Hamrick. Soybeans accounted for over $2 million of the farmers' income.

Red Cross Chapter Prepares Christmas Bags for Vietnam

Christmas 1968 is coming six months ahead of time to the Pickaway County Chapter of the Red Cross.

For the third successive year, the Red Cross Chapter here is joining with others across the country in a nationwide project to make and fill gift bags to be distributed to U.S. servicemen and servicewomen stationed in Vietnam at Christmastime.

The chapter here has been asked by the national organization to make and fill 200 bags. The bags are to be made of sturdy red and green cotton material, so they will be serviceable to their owners after the original contents are used.

"Red Cross Shop Early — Vietnam 1968" is intended to be a "tangible way for Americans to say we care about our troops in Vietnam," Howard Judd, chairman of the Pickaway County Chapter, said.

"This is not exclusively a Red Cross program," Mr. Judd continued, "but a community-wide affair in which many organizations, groups, and business firms are participating. Our chapter volunteers are sewing the bags in all-day sessions at the Chapter House, 167 Watt St. Individuals, clubs, and businesses are being asked to donate the more than 2,000 articles needed to fill them. When the bags are finished, volunteers will pack and mail them.

Each bag will contain a holiday greeting card carrying the names of these contributors and the name of the Red Cross Chapter here.

Among the items the bags packed here will contain are: ballpoint pens, pen-sized flashlights, windproof-type cigarette lighters with accompanying package of lighter flints, plastic soap case, small packages of writing paper with self-seal envelopes, small address book, plastic toothbrush holder, terry cloth washcloth (other than white or light color), plastic cigarette case, comb, mailing-size voice tapes (reels of 3" tapes — 150" length), small tins of nuts or candies — vacuum packed, small plastic snapshot holders, small kitchen size and sandwich type plastic bags (minimum of 3 — not wax paper type), "Wipe and Shine" — packet shoe polish, pocket games (small enough to put in pocket or plastic bag, for example, small decks of playing cards, chess, pinchle, etc.), "Wash & Dries."

Work on the bags already has begun and will continue until Pickaway County's quota is finished. "With October 15 as the final deadline for shipping, the Pickaway County Chapter is aiming at completion of the project by September 20," Mr. Judd said.

From the Banks of Deercreek

WILLIAMSPORT NEWS

By Ron Beatty — Phone 986-2581

Come to Williamsport! Satisfy your fishing pleasure and palate from a rushing stream teeming with fighting fish waiting to be fried. Enjoy the miles of forested banks covered with luxuriant, exciting, beautiful wildflowers and see that place where the sound of running water makes constant music and the lovely curves and arches rise against a sky that seems forever blue. That is Deercreek at the bridge in case you didn't recognize it.

If anybody made any news this week they either didn't want it known or didn't let me know. I've had all I can handle taking care of the boys anyway. My wife has been gone for three weeks. Why? Needed rest. I counted my money. "I've got enough," I said, "for 1,000 miles." "Where will that take me?" she asked. We looked at the map. "South," I said, "You should almost make it to Cuba." "Cuba! In the summer?" "We'll, North, you can go to Lake Abitibi in Canada," "Mosquitoes and flies? Ugh!" "Try East then, no bugs there and you should stay cool in the middle of the Atlantic Ocean." "No, I want to go to Nebraska". Sister lives there.

Daughter went along. They wanted to take a train... see more country, they said. Real reason... Afraid to fly. Neither had rode a train. Worried about luggage, connections, etc. "Simple," I said. "I'll check your luggage through and they always announcing a train. "Wallailopit-station just as they were announcing a train. "Wallailopit-fornewl," the man said. "See just like I told you. She started at me. "Do you know what he said?" "Sure. "Wallailopit-fornewl," I replied. "Come on and I'll check your luggage."

"Won't get there for three days," said the man. "Has to go through Cincinnati." I never knew this and wouldn't have guessed it. Why your luggage has to go through Cincinnati and you don't get near the place was a mystery to me. "Why doesn't it go the same way as the passengers?" I stupidly asked. "No reason, just our policy," he said. "Just take it with you. Plenty of Red Caps," I said encouragingly. Found out later Red Caps were either on strike or vacation.

Trouble started early. Promised the boys we would go swimming first day off. Got up. North wind blowing. Temperature around 50. Rain coming down in sheets. "Are we going swimming?", they asked. "No." "Why not?" Explained about survival chances in ice water. They

County Sales Tax $67,715.69 in June

Pickaway County residents paid $65,715.59 in sales tax during June, according to a report by the state treasurer's office.

One year ago, local residents paid only $33,064.05 in sales tax for the same month. Cuyahoga County residents paid the highest amount of sales taxes this year in June with a total of $7,020,480.85. The lowest amount of sales tax was collected from Vinton County with $15,989.48.

sulked. Five minutes later... "It isn't raining so hard now. Can we go?" Made a show of looking out door. "Better wait," I said. Very slow day filled with accusing glances and frowns. Blamed for weather. Almost too much.

Second day bad. Tried to cook. "What's that?" they asked. "Do you mean we're going to eat it?" I ate it. Sent them to restaurant. Next day I went to restaurant, too. Weather finally cleared. Took off early for lake with two additions. Neighbor boys. Every two miles had to give estimate on how many more miles it was to the lake. They asked fifty thousand other questions. Answers got shorter. Last forty thousand were "Don't know."

Reached lake. Planned to rest. First thing they asked me to go off the high board. Make up excuses. They whispered to each other. Finally climbed up and looked down. Twice as far down as it was up. Started back. They were watching. Stood on end and studied water, planning quick jump. Looked over my shoulder and they were still watching. Finally closed eyes and fell over. Water hard as brick. Came out staggering and sneaked behind life guard tower to massage wrenched shoulder.

Went across lake to grill hamburgers. Forgot paper plates. Started to open uncola. Forgot opener. Used bumper jack to open uncola and then found an opener on picnic table. Went back to beach. Fad now was forward flip off diving board. Jim Mowrey was there and showed boys how. They learned on second try. I tried fifty times and made it once. Back and legs now bright red. Had to come home on back roads to look for land turtles. ... found one. Sat on edge of seat all the way and still can't touch burned back. Going back to work tomorrow and relax.

Bloody Nigerian War Continues

LAGOS (AP) — Nigera, a country of vast potential riches and the most populous nation in Africa, continues to wallow in a bloody, year-old civil war and efforts to arrange a cease-fire have so far been futile.

The federal government in Lagos holds the upper hand in the fighting and has occupied large chunks of the secessionist Eastern Region—Biafra—and most of the area's major cities.

Both sides would like to end the conflict that has driven the country to the edge of ruin, created millions of refugees in Biafra and killed untold numbers of Nigerians.

But cease-fire negotiations in May broke down in disagreement over conditions. The Biafrans want an unconditional cease-fire and withdrawal of federal troops. Lagos wants assurances, before it withdraws its forces, that Biafra will rejoin the federation as three separate states.

Contacts are continuing and there is a possibility new talks may begin in London.

Meanwhile, the situation in Biafra grows more and more desperate. There are an estimated 4.5-million refugees in what is left of Biafra and a generation of youngsters in the area is being crippled by protein starvation, relief officials say.

International relief agencies say that as many as a million Biafrans will die of starvation before the end of summer unless more food can be supplied to the Biafrans, now jammed into about 10,000 square miles of what already was the most densely populated territory of Africa.

The area is under tight blockade by the Lagos government and the federal air force of Soviet-built MIGs and Czech-made Delfins controls the air. Federal capture in May of Port Harcourt, Biafra's largest city and its main depot for airlifted supplies, tightened the ring on Biafra.

Herald Employee Joins Elite Group of American Golfers

A few years ago they fed a lot of statistics into one of these wise computers and out came the startling fact that the odds against making a hole-in-one were 84,575 to one.

At the rate that American golfers are carding aces, those odds are dropping dramatically, although an even money bet it isn't yet!

It's not that scoring the shot of a lifetime is getting easier, it's just that more and more persons each year are churning up real estate as they propel those little white balls through the atmosphere. It is estimated that some 10,000,000 persons have links fever, so it's little wonder that 12 or 13 thousand holes-in-one will be recorded in 1969, including the one that Herald employee, Rich Whaley, scored at Upper Lansdown recently. Rich may be a $1,000 richer come next winter, but more about that later.

Do you have to be a good golfer to get an ace? The answer is no, although the ability to get up or near the pin on short holes certainly helps the better swinger. Many duffers have made aces, though, and one 71-year-old grandmother, Mrs. Fred Reeves of Midland, Mich., came up with one on her very first round of golf.

And if you've never had an ace, ponder this. A six-year-old in Hagerstown, Md., name of

Tommy Moore, was golfing in Martinsburg, West Virginia, last March. He stepped up to the 145-yard fourth hole at the Woodbrier Golf Course, took a driver out of his bag and ker-plunk!—a shot that bounced 15-feet in front of the pin and rolled into the cup.

The most prolific of all aces is a Bakersfield, Cal. physician by the name of Dr. Joseph Boydstone. They've stopped counting the number he claims to have made. In 1961 the good Doctor notched eleven of 'em, and what's more he has the witnesses to prove it. He's slowed down a bit recently, and hasn't had any since early this summer when he carded a "1" at the Fig Garden Course in Bakersfield.

The longest? A 444-yard classic shot by 21-year-old Bob Mitera of Omaha, who stroked his way into the record books back in October, 1965 on the 10th hole at the appropriately named Miracle Hill Golf Course. Nobody recalls the wind velocity on the day, but would you believe gale force?

According to Golf Digest Magazine, which keeps a roomful of records and statistics on aces, there's a young fellow named Jack Summers of Oklahoma City, who was playing for his high school team last March when he aced the 420-yard eighth hole, a level straight par 4. The fairways were cement-like and there was a good tail wind.

Summers used a 2 wood, or brassie as the old-timers called it, to get it up in the air. He smacked it about 350 yards on the fly and it bounced in front of the green and into the cup.

At 17, young Summers has had six aces, three of them on par 4 holes. But just wait until he grows up!

It used to be that Lloyds' of London would insure a golfer "against" making a hole-in-one, so that he would be able to pay for the traditional round of drinks at the "19th hole." But the growing incidence of aces caused the bowler-hat boys to discontinue the practice some years ago.

Not that scoring a hole-in-one doesn't have its rewards. You can get medals, wallets, plaques, certificates and even a free dinner at a couple of restaurants in New York and Connecticut. Sorry, but you'll have to provide your own plane fare if you don't live around the corner, say in California.

The granddaddy prize of 'em all is a free trip to Scotland for two plus a cool $1,000 in the annual Rusty Nail Hole-In-One Sweepstakes, now in its seventh year. This competition is sponsored by the Drambuie Company of Edinburgh, Scotland, and you get to sample the elixir after you've played at the Royal and Ancient Club at St. Andrew's. . . that's if you win. Your club professional pockets $1,000, too, if your name is drawn.

Any day now Rich Whaley will be getting a letter from the Drambuie people in Scotland along with a badge attesting to his feat.

Did you ever hear of a hole-in-one scored on demand? Well, one Toney Tiso a pro in Westchester County, N.Y., did just that a few years back after 439 shots on the 14th hole at the Vernon Hills Country Club. A few years later, however, the famous Turnesa golfing clan including professionals Joe, Doug, Mike and Phil, fired away all day for a $1,000 prize put up by Old Smuggler Scotch, but failed to get one in front of a battery of motion picture cameras. The canny Scot kept his grand.

Richard Nixon once said that the hole-in-one he scored had to be the greatest thrill of his lifetime, but oh how he'd love to call it the second greatest. Joe DiMaggio, Joey Bishop, Ralph Branca, Ogden Phipps, have come up with aces in recent years, along with the thousands of week-end golfers who rack them up at public courses as well as at the plush clubs.

New York Giant veteran offensive end, Del Shofner, currently making a comeback as a National Football League star, says he is as proud of the ace he came up with at the San Gabriel (Calif.) Country Club as he would be of catching a game-winning touchdown pass from Fran Tarkenton.

Every sport has its thrills. A grand-slam homer, a no-hit game, a 300 bowling score, a "hat trick" in hockey, or even a 100-to-one shot racing across the finish line. But for sheer excitement, there aren't superlatives enough to describe the tingle of seeing that tee shot soar into the air and roll into a tiny cup down the fairway a few seconds later.

NFL Strike Threat Now At New Stage

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The strike—if there is one—of the National Football League Players Association now has reached the wait-and-see stage.

"Nobody is on strike now," veteran tackle Alex Karras said in Detroit.

"We won't know until Sunday when San Francisco goes into camp if there's a strike at all.

"Ail of the players will be on strike if there is no settlement before next week."

John Gordy, president of the Players Association, is maintaining official silence, but scores of players have said they received telegrams from him ordering them not to report until negotiations can be worked out with the owners.

The only official comment since the break-up of a meeting between player representatives and an owners group last week-end came from Art Modell, NFL president.

He said the players had rejected the owner's offer, particularly in the area of improved pension benefits. They apparently agreed on most, if not all, other points.

San Francisco has the first camp opening—for rookies Sunday. Rookies are not members of the Players Association.

Nineteen veteran members of the 49ers, including Howard Mudd, Bruce Bosley, Ken Wilard and Joe Cerne, said they would not report at that time.

Veterans were scheduled to report the following week.

Detroit opens its rookie camp July 9, with Detroit and Green Bay scheduled the following day.

San Francisco owner Lou Spadia, however, said he did not think a strike would take place. "I'm optimistic that it can be settled quickly," he said.

Gordy, however, has declined comment on whether future talks between player representatives and owners are scheduled.

SF Giants Trim Atlanta Braves, 6-4

By MURRAY CHASE

Associated Press Sports Writer
The All-Star voters, Hank Aaron said about his selection to the National League team, must have voted the first day of the season.

Aaron showed again Thursday why he made that quip.

Atlanta's erstwhile batting terror grounded into double plays his last two times at bat as the San Francisco Giants trimmed the Braves 6-4 and tied them for second place.

Aaron's lack of hitting has been evident all season. True, he has hit 15 home runs, second best in the league, and driven in 43 runs, sixth in the NL.

But a large portion of those RBI's has not significantly aided the Atlanta attack, and he's hitting an incredibly low .231. That compares with his .316 lifetime average, tops among active players.

DENVER (AP) — The Denver Rockets of the American Basketball Association Thursday signed Bil Pickens, a 6-foot-10, 255-pound Georgia Southern graduate. Pickens was on the taxi squad of the Kansas City Chiefs of the American Football League during 1966 and part of 1967.

Still his fellow players voted him into the starting line-up for the All-Star game in Houston next Tuesday.

Against the Giants Thursday, the 34-year-old Aaron singled in the fifth inning, stole second and scored on Joe Torre's single. But it was a different story each of the other four times he batted, especially the last two.

Coming to the plate in the seventh with Felipe Alou at first base, and the game tied 4-4, Aaron grounded a Frank Linzy pitch to shortstop Hal Lanier, who promptly turned it into a double play.

By the ninth inning the Braves were trailing 6-4, but they rallied and loaded the bases with one out on a walk to Mike Page and singles by Alou and Clete Boyer.

Herald Employee Joins Elite Group of American Golfers

A few years ago they fed a lot of statistics into one of these wise computers and out came the startling fact that the odds against making a hole-in-one were 84,575 to one.

At the rate that American golfers are carding aces, those odds are dropping dramatically, although an even money bet it isn't yet!

It's not that scoring the shot of a lifetime is getting easier, it's just that more and more persons each year are churning up real estate as they propel those little white balls through the atmosphere. It is estimated that some 10,000,000 persons have links fever, so it's little wonder that 12 or 13 thousand holes-in-one will be recorded in 1969, including the one that Herald employee, Rich Whaley, scored at Upper Lansdown recently. Rich may be a $1,000 richer come next winter, but more about that later.

Do you have to be a good golfer to get an ace? The answer is no, although the ability to get up or near the pin on short holes certainly helps the better swinger. Many duffers have made aces, though, and one 71-year-old grandmother, Mrs. Fred Reeves of Midland, Mich., came up with one on her very first round of golf.

And if you've never had an ace, ponder this. A six-year-old in Hagerstown, Md., name of

Tommy Moore, was golfing in Martinsburg, West Virginia, last March. He stepped up to the 145-yard fourth hole at the Woodbrier Golf Course, took a driver out of his bag and kerplunk!—a shot that bounced 15 feet in front of the pin and rolled into the cup.

The most prolific of all aces is a Bakersfield, Cal. physician by the name of Dr. Joseph Boydstone. They've stopped counting the number he claims to have made. In 1961 the good Doctor notched eleven of 'em, and what's more he has the witnesses to prove it. He's slowed down a bit recently, and hasn't had any since early this summer when he carded a "1" at the Fig Garden Course in Bakersfield.

The longest? A 444-yard classic shot by 21-year-old Bob Mitera of Omaha, who stroked his way into the record books back in October, 1965 on the 10th hole at the appropriately named Miracle Hill Golf Course. Nobody recalls the wind velocity on the day, but would you believe gale force?

According to Golf Digest Magazine, which keeps a roomful of records and statistics on aces, there's a young fellow named Jack Summers of Oklahoma City, who was playing for his high school team last March when he aced the 420-yard eighth hole, a level straight par 4. The fairways were cement-like and there was a good tail wind.

Summers used a 2 wood, or brassie as the old-timers called it, to get it up in the air. He smacked it about 350 yards on the fly and it bounced in front of the green and into the cup.

At 17, young Summers has had six aces, three of them on par 4 holes. But just wait until he grows up!

It used to be that Lloyds' of London would insure a golfer "against" making a hole-in-one, so that he would be able to pay for the traditional round of drinks at the "19th hole." But the growing incidence of aces caused the bowler-hat boys to discontinue the practice some years ago.

Not that scoring a hole-in-one doesn't have its rewards. You can get medals, wallets, plaques, certificates and even a free dinner at a couple of restaurants in New York and Connecticut. Sorry, but you'll have to provide your own plane fare if you don't live around the corner, say in California.

The granddaddy prize of 'em all is a free trip to Scotland for two plus a cool $1,000 in the annual Rusty Nail Hole-In-One Sweepstakes, now in its seventh year. This competition is sponsored by the Drambuie Company of Edinburgh, Scotland, and you get to sample the elixir after you've played at the Royal and Ancient Club at St. Andrew's. . . that's if you win. Your club professional pockets $1,000, too, if your name is drawn.

Any day now Rich Whaley will be getting a letter from the Drambuie people in Scotland along with a badge attesting to his feat.

Did you ever hear of a hole-in-one scored on demand? Well, one Toney Tiso, a pro in Westchester County, N.Y., did just that a few years back after 439 shots on the 14th hole at the Vernon Hills Country Club.

A few years later, however, the famous Turnesa golfing clan including professionals Joe, Doug, Mike and Phil, fired away all day for a $1,000 prize put up by Old Smuggler Scotch, but failed to get one in front of a battery of motion picture cameras. The canny Scot kept his grand.

Richard Nixon once said that the hole-in-one he scored had to be the greatest thrill of his lifetime, but oh how he'd love to call it the second greatest. Joe DiMaggio, Joey Bishop, Ralph Branca, Ogden Phipps, have come up with aces in recent years, along with the thousands of week-end golfers who rack them up at public courses as well as at the plushest clubs.

New York Giant veteran offensive end, Del Shofner, currently making a comeback as a National Football League star, says he is as proud of the ace he came up with at the San Gabriel (Calif.) Country Club as he would be of catching a game-winning touchdown pass from Fran Tarkenton.

Every sport has its thrills. A grand-slam homer, a no-hit game, a 300 bowling score, a "hat trick" in hockey, or even a 100-to-one shot racing across the finish line. But for sheer excitement, there aren't superlatives enough to describe the tingle of seeing that tee shot soar into the air and roll into a tiny cup down the fairway a few seconds later.

NFL Strike Threat Now At New Stage

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The strike—if there is one—of the National Football League Players Association now has reached the wait-and-see stage.

"Nobody is on strike now," veteran tackle Alex Karras said in Detroit.

"We won't know until Sunday when San Francisco goes into camp if there's a strike at all."

"All of the players will be on strike if there is no settlement before next week."

John Gordy, president of the Players Association, is maintaining official silence, but scores of players have said they received telegrams from him ordering them not to report until negotiations can be worked out with the owners.

The only official comment since the break-up of a meeting between player representatives and an owners group last weekend came from Art Modell, NFL president.

He said the players had rejected the owner's offer, particularly in the area of improved pension benefits. They apparently agreed on most, if not all, other points.

San Francisco has the first camp opening—for rookies Sunday. Rookies are not members of the Players Association.

Nineteen veteran members of the 49ers, including Howard Mudd, Bruce Bosley, Ken Wilard and Joe Cerne, said they would not report at that time.

Veterans were scheduled to report the following week.

Detroit opens its rookie camp July 9, with Detroit and Green Bay scheduled the following day.

San Francisco owner Lou Spadia, however, said he did not think a strike would take place.

"I'm optimistic that it can be settled quickly," he said.

Gordy, however, has declined comment on whether future talks between player representatives and owners are scheduled.

Her husband of seven weeks quickly brought her out of the clouds by disclosing he had to stop playing golf with his bride because he consistently defeated her and deflated her ego.

SF Giants Trim Atlanta Braves, 6-4

By MURRAY CHASE

Associated Press Sports Writer

The All-Star voters, Hank Aaron said about his selection to the National League team, must have voted the first day of the season.

Aaron showed again Thursday why he made that quip.

Atlanta's erstwhile batting terror grounded into double plays his last two times at bat as the San Francisco Giants trimmed the Braves 6-4 and tied them for second place.

Aaron's lack of hitting has been evident all season. True, he has hit 15 home runs, second best in the league, and driven in 43 runs, sixth in the NL.

But a large portion of those RBI's has not significantly aided the Atlanta attack, and he's hitting an incredibly low .231. That compares with his .316 lifetime average, tops among active players.

Tigers Blast Angels, 13-10, in Slugfest

By HAL BROCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
The Great Hit Famine took a fashioned Fourth of July fireworks show of home runs in Detroit.

Jim Northrup, Norm Cash and Don Mincher took turns hitting baseballs out of sight and when they were through, the Tigers had a 13-10 slugfest victory over California.

It was the fourth straight triumph for the Tigers and ninth in the last 10 games, giving them an 8½ game lead over the rest of the American League.

Northrup and Cash had two homers each for the Tigers and Mincher two for the Angels. Willie Horton and Bill Freehan also connected for Detroit and Jim Fregosi for California as the two teams used up 11 pitchers. Elsewhere in the American League, Baltimore edged Chicago 4-3 in 12 innings, Cleveland dropped Minnesota 6-3, Boston defeated Oakland 7-2 and Washington whipped New York 4-2. The Angels scored four last runs in the second inning with Mincher tagging his first homer and it looked like it might be a good day for Bill Rigney's club.

But the Tigers bounced right back with their biggest inning of the year, scoring nine runs in the bottom of the second with homers by Cash, Freehan and Horton leading the attack.

Northrup had a two-run triple and Dick McAuliffe a two-run double in the big inning. Cash and Northrup hit consecutive homers in the sixth and Northrup slammed a two-run shot in the eighth.

The six homers tied a Detroit club record and gave the team 93 homers for the year—26 of them against California.

Brooks Robinson tagged a pair of homers for the Orioles but Baltimore didn't beat the White Sox until the 12th when Fred Valentine led off with a triple and then strolled home following two intentional walks and one unintentional one.

Chicago had tied the game with two out in the ninth and Pete Ward on first when Bill

Voss was hit in the head by a pitch and Duane Josephson followed with a double. Voss suffered a fractured right cheekbone.

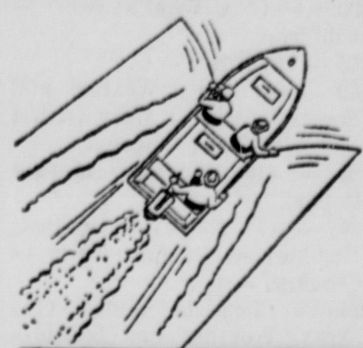

Chicago Manager Eddie Stanky ordered Mark Belanger and Dave Johnson intentionally walked following Valentine's triple in the 12th. Then Don Buford drew the third walk that forced Valentine home.

Ed Stroud slashed two doubles and two triples and scored twice, leading Washington past the Yankees. The four hits gave Stroud 11 hits in 21 at bats against the Yankees this season.

OP Warden in Hospital

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Penitentiary Warden Ernest Maxwell was hospitalized Thursday, suffering from what his physicians described as "complete exhaustion."

Maxwell, scheduled to retire soon, has long suffered from a chest and lung ailment. He had been on duty almost constantly since rioting and fires broke out at the penitentiary June 24.

Maury Koblenz, state corrections chief, said Troy Harris, administrative assistant to Maxwell, will be in charge of the prison until Maxwell returns.

Koblenz said inmates have been confined to their cells, largely to "rest the employees."

The prison is more than 50 guards short and some of them have been working 12-hour shifts.

Koblenz also said Thursday that a total of 94 inmates have been placed in isolation cells in the highway patrol's investigation of the recent rioting and fires.

However, Koblenz said that this does not necessarily mean that all 94 will face charges when the investigation is completed.

Ray's Lawyer In London For Meeting

Attorney insists Man Is Sneyd, Not James Ray

LONDON (AP) — Arthur J. Hanes, the Birmingham, Ala., lawyer retained to defend the accused assassin of Martin Luther King Jr., arrived in London today and said he would have a first meeting with him within hours.

But Hanes insisted the man he would be seeing was Ramon George Sneyd, not James Earl Ray as claimed by the U.S. government and accepted by the British court which agreed to extradite him last Tuesday.

Hanes said his client might plead innocent or innocent by reason of insanity to charges brought against him.

He added: "Of course, he may not be extradited. I am not certain that he will be."

Regarding the identity of the man wanted in the slaying of King, Hanes said: "He is Ramon George Sneyd as far as I am concerned. This man has identified himself as such. I am saying that the U.S. government and the authorities of Tennessee have the burden to prove otherwise."

"It will have no bearing in Tennessee that the British courts say he is James Earl Ray."

King was assassinated April 4 in Memphis, Tenn., and a worldwide manhunt began for James Earl Ray.

Ray was arrested at London Airport June 8 by Scotland Yard agents and accused of using a forged Canadian passport in the name of Sneyd and possessing an unlicensed gun. Those charges are still pending.

After a two-day hearing at Bow Street Court, London's chief metropolitan magistrate, Frank Milton, ordered Ray extradited as a fugitive criminal wanted for murder and armed robbery in the United States.

Ray's court-appointed British lawyers have 15 days in which to appeal to a higher court. They said they intend to file an appeal.

Romo Leads Cleveland To 8-3 Win

CLEVELAND (AP) — Vicente Romo's hips are back where they belong and he is doing just fine.

Credit Alvin Dark with an assist.

The Cleveland Manager noticed a fault in Romo's delivery back in spring training when the Mexican right-hander pitched against the Indians.

Romo later went to the Cleveland farm system and Dark told him what he was doing wrong. It paid off Thursday. Romo blanked the Minnesota Twins for five innings until Cleveland rallied in the eighth inning for a 6-3 victory.

Minnesota had a 3-0 lead when Romo, the third Cleveland pitcher, came on in the fourth. His opponent, Dean Chance, had a no-hitter going.

Cleveland tallied twice in the fifth with Vern Fuller's single driving in Duke Sims and Billy Harris. Fuller also started the winning rally in the eighth with a single, the first of three that drove Chance from the mound.

Russ Snyder tied it with a single, scoring Dave Nelson, who ran for Fuller.

Reliever Ron Perranoski fired a wild pitch and intentionally walked Lou Johnson to fill the bases. Al Worthington came on for Perranoski and uncorked a wild pitch on his first offering.

Jose Cardenal scored the go-ahead run and Joe Azcue added two more with a double.

The Indians open a four-game series against the California Angels tonight with Sonny Siebert facing Ricky Clark.

Third was Lee Cook with 67 and Snap Ankrom's 68 was good for fourth.

Erma Hedges placed first in the nine hole Ladies' Flag Tourney. Second was Betty Brian.

The 36-hole net Directors Tournament is running through Sunday. It is open to all male club members.

Pro Tennis Stars Want More Money

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — The professional tennis stars, only partly successful at the first-ever open Wimbledon, may press for bigger prize money next year.

George MacCall, the promoter who runs the National Tennis League, said its organization would have lost $20,000 by entering its stars in the Wimbledon tournament—even if they had cleaned up all the prize money.

City Merchants Post 11th Win

Circleville Merchants won its 11th game against only one loss by thumping DuPont MYPD, 11-1, Wednesday in Circleville Slow Pitch Softball.

Lester Smith pitched the win for the Merchants. Dave Justus and Terry Anderson homered. Smith and Bob Welfler tripled and Mike Brown doubled twice for the winners.

Gunman Forces Police Head To Give Him New Rifle

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — A gunman who has held out for three days against a police siege and even got authorities to help marry him to his hostage, an 18-year-old girl, now has a high-powered rifle given to him by the police commissioner.

Commissioner Norman T. Allan said today he was forced into the action when Wally Mellish, 23, pointed a shotgun and pistol at his new bride and demanded the rifle.

"I had to make an agonizing decision," Allan said. "To refuse meant death for her and the baby."

Mellish is holding both his wife, the former Beryl Muddle, and her 10-week-old son as hostages.

Allan and the Rev. Clyde Paton, an Anglican priest, entered the suburban Sydney house where Mellish is holding out to reason with him Thursday.

Mellish had broken his promise to surrender if he was allowed to marry Miss Muddle, whom he seized at gunpoint Tuesday.

The Rev. Mr. Paton performed the ceremony Wednesday and Allan, who was unarmed, was a witness.

Allan said today that in addition to the high-powered Armalite rifle and 200 rounds of ammunition for it, Mellish has a shotgun, a .303 rifle and a pistol. Mellish's wife said he also has a box of grenades.

"My only concern is for the lives of that girl and her baby," Allan said. "I'll do anything to grant any request to protect them. I have the responsibility of seeing that the baby and the mother are not killed through any action of mine..."

"If we have to wait seven days we will wait. We cannot use tear gas. How would an 18-year-old girl and a baby stand up to high density tear gas?"

The house still was surrounded by police today.

Reds Score 3 in 9th, Top Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — The ninth inning seems to be the lucky one for the Cincinnati Reds—especially if they are playing Houston.

The Reds scored three insurance runs in the ninth Thursday night to whip the Astros, 7-4, and take the series three games to one.

During the four games the Reds scored eight runs in the ninth inning.

The Astros took a 2-0 lead Thursday night with single runs in the first and second innings.

The Reds tied it in the third on a walk to Reds starting pitcher Gary Nolan. Pete Rose's single and infield outs by Alex Johnson and Mack Jones.

Johnson singled in the go-ahead run in the fifth after a walk and Rose's fielder's choice.

The Reds added another run in the sixth on John Bench's single, an intentional walk and Woody Woodward's single.

Cincinnati had iced it away in its half of the ninth before Houston scored its final run.

Johnson's infield hit with the bases loaded in the ninth accounted for one Cincinnati run and Jones singled in the other two.

Johnson and Jones each drove in three runs.

Nolan, the winner, now is 4-2 for the season. He had to have help from Ted Abernathy in the seventh.

Tommy Mozur Tops Loyo-Mayo

CINCINNATI (AP) — Tommy Mozur's upset victory over defending titlist Joaquin Loyo-Mayo of Mexico Thursday pushed him in today's quarter finals of the Tri-State Tennis Tournament.

The 20-year-old Mozur of Sweetwater, Tenn., initially seeded 14th at the Tri-State tourney, leaped ahead in ranking after topping No. 1 Loyo-Mayo 7-5, 4-6, 6-3.

Tigers Blast Angels, 13-10, in Slugfest

By HAL BROCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
The Great Hit Famine took a fashioned Fourth of July fireworks show of home runs in Detroit.

Jim Northrup, Norm Cash and Don Mincher took turns hitting baseballs out of sight and when they were through, the Tigers had a 13-10 slugfest victory over California.

It was the fourth straight triumph for the Tigers and ninth in the last 10 games, giving them an 8½ game lead over the rest of the American League.

Northrup and Cash had two homers each for the Tigers and Mincher two for the Angels. Willie Horton and Bill Freehan also connected for Detroit and Jim Fregosi for California as the two teams used up 11 pitchers. Elsewhere in the American League, Baltimore edged Chicago 4-3 in 12 innings, Cleveland dropped Minnesota 6-3, Boston defeated Oakland 7-2 and Washington whipped New York 4-2.

The Angels scored four last runs in the second inning with Mincher tagging his first homer and it looked like it might be a good day for Bill Rigney's club.

But the Tigers bounced right back with their biggest inning of the year, scoring nine runs in the bottom of the second with homers by Cash, Freehan and Horton leading the attack.

Northrup had a two-run triple and Dick McAuliffe a two-run double in the big inning. Cash and Northrup hit consecutive homers in the sixth and Northrup slammed a two-run shot in the eighth.

The six homers tied a Detroit club record and gave the team 93 homers for the year—26 of them against California.

Brooks Robinson tagged a pair of homers for the Orioles but Baltimore didn't beat the White Sox until the 12th when Fred Valentine led off with a triple and then stroled home following two intentional walks and one unintentional one.

Chicago had tied the game with two out in the ninth and Pete Ward on first when Bill

Voss was hit in the head by a pitch and Duane Josephson followed with a double. Voss suffered a fractured right cheekbone.

Chicago Manager Eddie Stanky ordered Mark Belanger and Dave Johnson intentionally walked following Valentine's triple in the 12th. Then Don Buford drew the third walk that forced Valentine home.

Ed Stroud slashed two doubles and two triples and scored twice, leading Washington past the Yankees. The four hits gave Stroud 11 hits in 21 at bats against the Yankees this season.

Yarborough Wins '400'

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP)—For William Caleb Yarborough speed is a way of life—the normal, slow way of doing things just doesn't agree with this son of a South Carolina tobacco farmer.

Yarborough—just "Cale" to fans of late model stock car racing—fractured the auto racing record book Thursday when he breezed to a 167.247 miles an hour victory in an accident-free Firecracker 400.

That's about 14 miles an hour faster than it has ever been done before and eclipses all-time race records at Daytona and even Indianapolis. Cale's reaction? A smile on his boyish face and a prediction that he'll snap the magic 190 m.p.h. mark in qualifying here next February if the rules aren't changed on him.

OP Warden in Hospital

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Penitentiary Warden Ernest Maxwell was hospitalized Thursday, suffering from what his physicians described as "complete exhaustion."

Maxwell, scheduled to retire soon, has long suffered from a chest and lung ailment. He had been on duty almost constantly since rioting and fires broke out at the penitentiary June 24.

Maury Koblenz, state corrections chief, said Troy Harris, administrative assistant to Maxwell, will be in charge of the prison until Maxwell returns. Koblenz said inmates have been confined to their cells, largely to "rest the employees."

The prison is more than 50 guards short and some of them have been working 12-hour shifts.

Koblenz also said Thursday that a total of 94 inmates have been placed in isolation cells in the highway patrol's investigation of the recent rioting and fires.

However, Koblenz said that this does not necessarily mean that all 94 will face charges when the investigation is completed.

Ray's Lawyer In London For Meeting

Attorney Insists Man Is Sneyd, Not James Ray

LONDON (AP) — Arthur J. Hanes, of the Birmingham, Ala., lawyer retained to defend the accused assassin of Martin Luther King Jr., arrived in London today and said he would have a first meeting with him within hours.

But Hanes insisted the man he would be seeing was Ramon George Sneyd, not James Earl Ray as claimed by the U.S. government and accepted by the British court which agreed to extradite him last Tuesday.

Hanes said his client might plead innocent or innocent by reason of insanity to charges brought against him.

He added: "Of course, he may not be extradited. I am not certain that he will be."

Regarding the identity of the man wanted in the slaying of King, Hanes said: "He is Ramon George Sneyd as far as I am concerned. This man has identified himself as such. I am saying that the U.S. government and the authorities of Tennessee have the burden to prove otherwise."

"It will have no bearing in Tennessee that the British courts say he is James Earl Ray."

King was assassinated April 4 in Memphis, Tenn., and a worldwide manhunt began for James Earl Ray.

Ray was arrested at London Airport June 8 by Scotland Yard agents and accused of using a forged Canadian passport in the name of Sneyd and possessing an unlicensed gun. Those charges are still pending.

After a two-day hearing at Bow Street Court, London's chief metropolitan magistrate, Frank Milton, ordered Ray extradited as a fugitive criminal wanted for murder and armed robbery in the United States.

Ray's court-appointed British lawyers have 15 days in which to appeal to a higher court. They said they intend to file an appeal.

July 4th Mostly Nice Across U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Pleasant July weather covered much of the country today, marred by only scattered outbreaks of thundershowers.

Temperatures were in the seasonal 60s before dawn through most of the northern states. Portions of the East were a chilly exception.

Phillipsburgh, Pa., registered a crisp 41 degrees. Summertime showers or thundershowers dampened the eastern fringes of the Rockies and the Central Plains as well as scattered sections along the eastern seaboard.

Rainfall generally was light through the early morning hours. However, local downpours dumped nearly 2 inches of rain on Dalhart, Tex., in the Upper Panhandle, and more than an inch at Columbia, S.C. The Southwest sizzled around the 100 mark Thursday, and even early today Needles, Calif., cooled down only to 94 degrees.

Allan said today that in addition to the high-powered Armalite rifle and 200 rounds of ammunition for it, Mellish has a shotgun, a .303 rifle and a pistol.

Mellish's wife said he also has a box of grenades.

"My only concern is for the lives of that girl and her baby," Allan said. "I'll do anything to grant any request to protect them. I have the responsibility of seeing that the baby and the mother are not killed through any action of mine."

"If we have to wait seven days we will wait. We cannot use tear gas. How would an 18-year-old girl and a baby stand up to high density tear gas?"

The house still was surrounded by police today.

Highway Town Reflects Past ... Faces Future

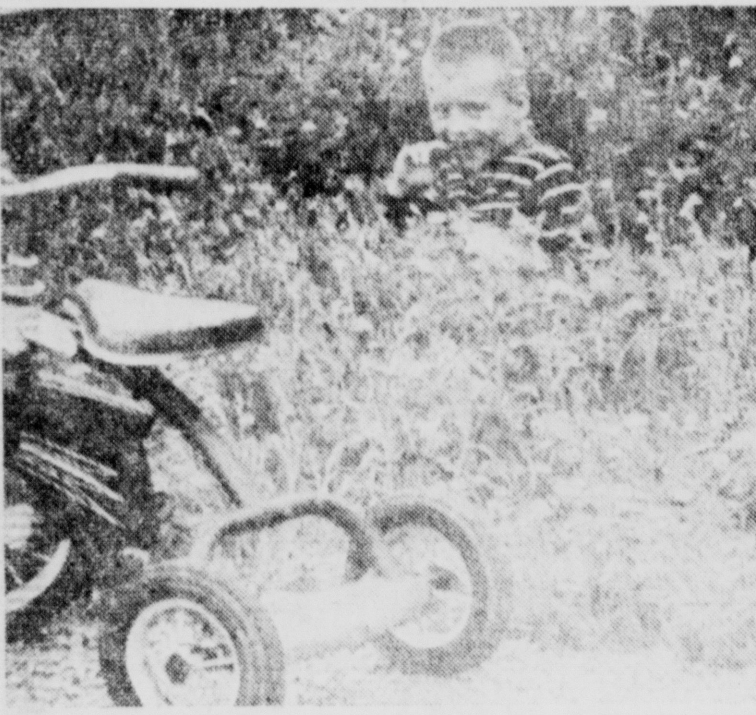

Faces reflect the trials of yesterday, problems of today and the hopes and dreams of a better tomorrow.

DAYS TO REMEMBER — Orville O'Day sits at his weatherboard house in South Bloomfield and remembers when he first moved to the village in 1912. The garden he keeps is to raise fruit and vegetables for his "good neighbors."

BERRIES TO PICK — What do you do if you are a village councilman on a warm afternoon with nothing else to do? You pick cherries for a pie and enjoy friendly chats with passing neighbors as this South Bloomfield councilman does.

DREAMS TO DREAM — There are dreams to dream and dragons to slay if you are a child in the sunny village of South Bloomfield. This young fellow seems to be content with his small world of fresh flowers and warm sun.

PROBLEMS OF TODAY — Marshal Harry Albery watches the streets and roads through the village for speeders. The city took in $20,000 in traffic fines last year compared with a village tax income of $30,000.

STOMACH TO FILL — A neighbor boy helps himself to some of the fresh cherries growing on a nearby tree. "The children are always welcome to them," said the owner.

WORK TO DO — Mayor Lester George works on a car at his service station on the south side of town. The station was originally a stage coach building.

Action Group Graduates Six Health Aides

Ohio Appalachia
Head Is Speaker
For Meeting

Jack Hill, deputy director of the Ohio Office of Appalachia, will address the six graduates of the Home-Health Program sponsored by the Pickaway County Community Action Organization.

The event will be held 7:30 p.m. Monday, at the L-K Restaurant.

Program graduates are Mrs. Stella Colburn, Mrs. Betty Wharton, Mrs. Mildred Lovely, Mrs. Dorothy Smith, Mrs. Cynthia Worthington and Mrs. Dorothy Teets.

The Business and Professional Women's Club and the Registered Nurses' Assn. are sponsoring the dinner. Representatives of several Pickaway County social agencies will attend.

The six women have been studying home management and nursing assistance for the past two months.

Mrs. Marjorie Kaiser Wolford taught them home management while Mrs. Jane Estenson, director, taught them the nursing phase.

They have also received instruction in general dietetic services, child care and development and maternal and child health.

For the next six months, the graduates will work with the Comprehensive Health Program sponsored by the Community Action Group.

Speaking Thursday to some 300 delegates to the American Communist party convention, Hall denounced the new left for "petty bourgeois radicalism."

The delegates are meeting to pick the first Communist presidential ticket since 1940, when Earl Browder was the party's candidate.

The original cowboy of the West's Golden Age appeared in 1867 after the Kansas Pacific Railroad laid tracks between Kansas City and a settlement named for a region mentioned in the Bible, Abilene.

JOINS G.E. — Franklin T. Manasso has joined the Circleville lamp facility of the General Electric Co., according to E. G. Grigg, plant manager. His assignment is in Manufacturing Engineering. Manasso is a native of Bayonne, N.J., and a graduate of Newark College of Engineering.

Cancer Clinic Set Monday

The Early Detection Cancer Clinic will be held 7-9 p.m. July 8 at Berger Hospital.

Mrs. David Hoffman, clinic chairman, urges all Pickaway County women from low income families to take advantage of the community service facility. Almost all uterine cancer can be cured if detected and treated in the early stages. A simple, painless test known as the Pap Smear has saved countless lives among women.

Church of Christ Sets Bible School

The Church of Christ on North Court St. will hold its Vacation Bible School July 8-12. Sessions will be from 10-11:30 a.m. for classes from nursery through adult.

The church bus will provide transportation. If the service is needed students may call 474-4380 in the morning and 474-6473 in the afternoon.

The Pickaway County Early Detection Cancer Clinic offers a pelvic examination, a breast examination, the Pap Smear and instruction in self-breast examination.

Centenarian on Pension Only Two Years

Joe G. Shortridge of Route 2 is one of the oldest beneficiaries in the six-county area of the Chillicothe District Social Security Office, even though he has been on the beneficiary rolls for less than two years.

Mr. Shortridge who will reach 100 years of age on July 17th, will receive a special centenarian birthday greeting from Robert M. Ball, commissioner of the Social Security Administration, in recognition of the occasion.

It was not until Oct. 1966, when he was past his 98th birthday, that Mr. Shortridge first became a social security beneficiary. At that time, he became entitled because of a new provision in the law which made special benefits payable to persons who were age 72, or older, and not receiving any public pension, even though the individual never had worked under the social security program.

Mr. Shortridge, who had been a farmer, retired about 20 years ago, before farm operators came under the social security law. Therefore, he had not acquired any social security coverage in his working years. He never had expected to receive any benefits under the program and was surprised to find that he had become eligible two years ago, when the "special age 72" payments went into effect. He already had enrolled for Medicare earlier in 1966, so that his name was on the records of the Social Security Administration as a person over age 72.

Social security records are confidential, but Mr. Shortridge permitted use of his story to help in the increase of public knowledge of benefits that may be possible.

Blaze Probed At Paper Firm

LUDLOW, Ky. (AP) — Fire officials were continuing the investigation of a fire which inflicted damage estimated at $300,000 to the Duro Paper Bag Co. in Ludlow Thursday.

A two-block warehouse and office complex were destroyed, but firemen succeeded in preventing flames from spreading to a nearby lumberyard. Two firemen suffered smoke inhalation.

Approximately 200 firemen from 11 northern Kentucky fire departments answered the alarm.

The warehouse destroyed contained large quantities of paper bags and two truck trailers.
